Scandal Rocks Scelba

Riot Police Guard Rome Against Reds

ROME, Italy (UP)—Premier Mario Scelba ordered riot police to guard Rome's principal squares tonight in a firm answer to a Communist attempt to topple his government on charges it protected prominent persons involved in a drugs-sex scandal.

The Italian Reds were in full cry for Scelba's scalp. They have been waiting eagerly for an opening to attack the short, tough Sicilian who blocked their bid for power in 1948.

Italy's "scandal of the century" has brought the arrest of the jazz pianist son of Italy's former foreign minister Attilio Piccioni and forced the minister's resignation.

TRUCKLOADS OF POLICE

But the sight of truckloads of armed police in the alleys near the senate, chamber of deputies and foreign office removed the threat of serious demonstrations.

The long-smoldering scandal broke with a fury Tuesday night with the arrest of Piero Piccioni and a self-styled nobleman in connection with the death, 17 months ago, of a half-naked pretty girl.

The jailing of Piccioni and the "Marquis" Ugo Montagna left Scelba's government and the pro-American Christian Democratic party reeling.

It threatened to drive more voters toward the Communists, who already control one of every three seats in the Chamber of Deputies.

FIGHTING BACK

Competent political observers said the involvement of young Piccioni, aided the Communist drive to try to topple Scelba, their most hated foe, from power.

But Scelba fought back this morning, working on strategy which he hopes will turn the crisis into triumph.

The scandal started on a lonely beach on the Mediterranean Sea on the night of April 11, 1953, when the body of Wilma Montesi, 20, was found. The climax came with the arrest of Piccioni on charges of wilful manslaughter and Montagna as an accessory after the fact.

Piero previously had been described by an aristocratic, discarded mistress of Montagna as an "assassin."

Cabinet Will Hear Fare Appeal

The provincial cabinet will hear an appeal against the transit increases granted the B.C. Electric on its Vancouver operation, it was learned today.

Cabinet sources said an appeal will be granted Vancouver City, and other lower mainland municipalities affected by the fare increase.

Vancouver council claimed the Public Utilities Commission, which handed down its decision awarding a fare boost Labor Day week-end, erred in computing wage costs contained in the BCE application.

The council also suggested there were "other irregularities in the increase application. Burnaby and North Vancouver plan to organize the other municipalities into a joint appeal.

New Westminster council launched its separate appeal.

No date has been set for the cabinet hearing, but it is considered likely the issue will await the return of Premier W. A. C. Bennett from the east two weeks from now.

No Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UP)—Prospects that President Eisenhower will propose a general income tax cut next year dimmed today with disclosure that the treasury probably will have to ask Congress for another hike in the federal debt limit.

'Please Pass the Frigate!'

"Received, one frigate." That's what the piece of paper held by author Nicholas Monsarrat means. He got it in 1943 in Halifax from Capt. Roland Stacey, now in Victoria, when Stacey took over frigate Ettrick command. Pair laugh about it today in reunion here. Monsarrat is author of best-seller, "The Cruel Sea"; intends to write two books on Canada.

In the northern part of New Brunswick, the language changes gradually from English to French; "welcome" becomes "bienvenue," "miles" become "milles," "French fries" are translated unapologetically into "patates frites."

A few miles north of Edmundston lies the Quebec border; and from there, an hour brings one to Riviere du Loup, and the broad St. Lawrence River.

I had a special reason for wanting to spend some time in Riviere du Loup. My ancestors all came originally from a small village called Castres, near Toulouse in the south of France. When they emigrated to a more tolerant atmosphere, about two hundred years ago, some of them went to Ireland, some to England, some to the Ever since I came to Canada, I've wanted to find out if this was so. Riviere du Loup meant the end of a personal quest.

It seems that it is true. Our name was in the telephone book; and a few yards from the hotel was an engineering works boldly labelled "Monsarrat Limited." I couldn't make contact with the man I really wanted to

Brazen London Bandits Grab $112,000 in Gold

LONDON (UP)—Police found the abandoned getaway truck today which bandits used to snatch $112,000 in gold bullion in a 20-second street robbery outside the home of Britain's highest law enforcement official.

But the bandits had vanished, presumably lugging with them two plain plank cartons full of bullion weighing more than 200 pounds.

The robbers grabbed their loot from an airline-delivery truck in a daring holdup committed in daylight during the rush hour Tuesday afternoon.

The robbery took place in a little cobbled lane called Jockey's Fields, right beside the residence of Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, overlord of Scotland Yard.

The bullion, consigned by Rothschild's bank to the Swiss Union Bank in Amsterdam, had

The clipped accented voice said "come in," and "Nicky" Monsarrat, who wrote a book everybody knows about, came to the door of his Empress Hotel room, stuffing shirt into trouser-top.

"See you downstairs in a few minutes," he said.

The author of the internationally talked-about book of the wartime navy, "The Cruel Sea," bounced into the rotunda and headed directly with outstretched hand for Capt. W. Roland Stacey of Victoria.

"It's been a long time," he said. Capt. Stacey, a marine surveyor here and vice-president of the harbor development group, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, picked up the frigate Ettrick from Monsarrat at Halifax in 1943. They were both "two-and-a-half" strippers' lieutenant-commanders, at that time.

In the series of 'cross-Canada stories Monsarrat is now writing, being carried by the Times, the famous author recalled the instance. Capt. Stacey, he said, "gave me a receipt, which I still have. It read, simply: 'Received, one frigate.'"

A long-time devotee of low, sleek European racing model cars, Monsarrat couldn't seem to wait to show off his continental $16,000 Bentley which stood up "without any trouble" during 5,075 miles of driving across the country. As director of the United Kingdom Information Office in the national capital, his "veddy veddy" vehicle has been a common and often commented-on sight on Ottawa streets.

After the long haul, "the best roads in Canada are right here in B.C.," he said. Second preference he gave Nova Scotia highways. Roads here were well-marked, and if the sign said "slow" he found that "exactly what they meant... nothing else."

Relaxed in an easy lobby chair, the 44-year-old greying author said he had completed 20 of the 24 "travel diary" stories of his trip. He intends to do one on this area and to-day visits the docks, Butchart Gardens and other points of interest. When the series is completed it will be published in Canada as well as in London and New York.

"It's the type of thing they enjoy overseas," he said. Writing since 1933, he has just sold film rights "on a percentage basis" on his latest book, "The Story of Esther Costello," a yarn about a blind girl. Character actress Joan

Ottawa Baffled By Jamaica Protest

'Get Rid Of Chiang'—Attlee

'Biggest Difficulty Is Nationalists'

LONDON (CP)—Labor leader Clement Attlee, returning today from his tour behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains, said he believes "the sooner we get rid of Chiang Kai-shek and his troops the better it will be."

The former prime minister told reporters at London airport after an overnight flight from Canada that the "biggest difficulty of all" in the Orient is Formosa, island stronghold of Chiang's Chinese Nationalists.

Attlee, who talked with top Russian and Chinese Communist leaders, said he felt there had been a relaxation of tension in the Orient following the Indo-China truce agreement at Geneva.

Attlee and his wife, who joined him in Singapore, were greeted here by their two daughters and a grandchild.

PARTY BUSY

But no high-ranking members of the Labor party turned up. The party's national executive committee, preparing for the annual party conference next week at Scarborough, was wrangling over the issue of West German rearmament at the moment Attlee's plane landed.

Attlee himself was expected to get into this discussion later in the day. (See story on page 2.)

Former Convict Top Suspect in Brent Killing

Police Hunting Montreal Man

VANCOUVER (BUP)—An ex-convict who came here from Montreal the day that Danny Brent, Press Club waiter believed a member of a west coast narcotics ring, was murdered, was listed today as the top suspect in Brent's killing.

Brent's body was found on the 10th green of the University of British Columbia golf course last Wednesday. Two bullets pumped into his body from a point-blank range were found in the ground, one of them 10 inches below the surface.

Police said the Montreal man, whom they refused to identify, apparently returned East the day after the shooting.

Potato Peeling—Is It a Skill?

Student Minister's Appeal in Lottery Depends on Alberta Court Finding

EDMONTON (CP)—How much skill is involved in peeling a potato?

That's the question now before the Alberta appeal court. The answer is expected to determine whether former student minister James Wallace of Provost, Alta., will be successful in his appeal against conviction and a $75 fine on a charge of conducting a lottery.

He had been in charge of a scheme through which the Provost Arena Association hoped to raise enough money to build a new arena for the eastern Alberta town.

About 200,000 tickets were sold for a "jamboree" at which 20 tickets were to be drawn. The holders were to compete in a potato-peeling contest. The prizes: 10 new cars.

Judge H. B. Fraser of the district court at Wetaskiwin ruled July 22 that the ticket-selling scheme was "essentially a mode of chance."

Crown prosecutor W. J. Shortreed said that during the trial several witnesses said they believed potato-peeling was a skill, but he termed their evidence only opinion. He said opinion evidence can be accepted only from experts, and those witnesses were not established as experts.

Mr. Justice M. M. Porter said that as a youth he worked on river boats, peeling potatoes. "It's such a skill that you were dismissed if you didn't peel them fast enough," he said.

"Then you would be qualified as an expert witness," replied Mr. Shortreed.

The appeal is continuing.

Stengel, 64, has managed the Yankees for six years. In his first five years the Yankees won the American League pennant and then took the World Series. New York finished second this year to Cleveland Indians.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed. Under the two-year contract which expires Jan. 1, 1955, Stengel is believed to be receiving $75,000, plus a pension deal and a $10,000 gift each year, bringing the total to around $95,000 a season.

Secretary of State, External Affairs Dept. Juggle Times Queries

By DAVE STOCK

High officials in Ottawa today acknowledged that a formal protest which the Jamaican House of Representatives is forwarding to Canada in connection with the case of the banished Jamaican bride at Shawnigan Lake School will create an unprecedented problem.

Victor Mackie, Times parliamentary correspondent in Ottawa, today enquired as to what course Canada will follow when the protest is received. He found no one who could say.

"This is a matter in which there appears to be no precedent," a spokesman for the department of external affairs told him. "We will have to determine how to handle it when we receive the protest. It all appears to have arisen out of a misunderstanding at the school, but we cannot address enquiries to the school. That action would probably come under the secretary of state."

A spokesman for the secretary of state's office expressed astonishment at the suggestion that the protest might end up in that department. He pointed out it was a protest from the administration in Jamaica directed to the Canadian government and therefore was clearly an external matter.

Protest May Become B.C. Baby

If it were a matter involving a public school in Victoria, the official told Mr. Mackie, then he believed federal authorities would turn the matter over to the provincial government on grounds that it was within its jurisdiction.

Shawnigan Lake School is a private institution.

Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state, for external affairs is absent from Ottawa at the UN General Assembly. In his absence, Hon. Roch Pinard, secretary of state, is acting secretary of state for external affairs.

Asked for comment both as secretary of state and as acting external affairs minister, Mr. Pinard told Mr. Mackie:

"I can say nothing. I do not know at this stage what action we will take."

Mr. Mackie's summary: "One thing appears clear. If and when the protest is received a polite reply will go back to the Jamaican House of Representatives acknowledging receipt of the protest and advising that the matter will be looked into. That much and no more will government officials admit."

Jamaica's House of Representatives dealt with the now-famous "Hewitt incident" at its session Tuesday. Mrs. Dorothy Hewitt, the beautiful Jamaican bride of Shawnigan Lake schoolmaster John Michael Hewitt recently returned to her home in Kingston, charging that she had been ordered to leave Shawnigan Lake School "before the boys come back and find a colored person here."

Mr. Hewitt, who is remaining at the school, corroborated his wife's statement but a denial was issued Tuesday by the school's board of governors.

At the same time, Mrs. Hewitt, returned to the home of her father, N. B. Holtz, accountant-general for Jamaica, expressed amazement that the Shawnigan Lake School board of governors had denied she had been asked to leave the school because of her race.

Contacted by the Vancouver Sun by telephone, sometime after the Victoria Times had interviewed her father by phone, Mrs. Hewitt said:

(Her father, in his interview with the Times, said that he and his family understood that what happened at the school was "not indicative of Canadians or of Canada.")

"I will consider the school's invitation to come back and discuss the matter with the board of governors," Mrs. Hewitt announced. "But I will have to discuss the matter with my father first."

At Shawnigan Lake today, her husband reported he was feeling "cheered" by the board of governors' decision to invite his wife back and let bygones be bygones.

Asked to say whether he felt she would accept, he replied: "I sincerely hope so. It's entirely up to her. She will have to make the decision."

Mr. Hewitt declined to discuss circumstances of the case in any further detail.

"I have agreed to make no more comment to the press," he said.

He said this had been requested of him by the board of governors.

"I just hope that it will all

ROBBERS DESECRATE EDEN FAMILY GRAVES

DURHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Police have arrested a man of 21 and a boy of 15 following investigation into the desecration of the family mausoleum near where some of the ancestors of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden are buried. They said the object of the raid was to steal the lead coffin linings.

The two will probably be charged with removing a body from a grave, officers said.

A coffin containing the remains of Robert Eden, who died 98 years ago, was taken from the burial vault last week and found on the Eden family estate at Windstone Hall, Chilton. Two other coffins had their outer casings removed.

Omaha Firm Purchases Alberta Gas

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Northern Natural Gas Co. today announced it has signed a 25-year contract to buy natural gas from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Northern president John Merriam said delivery is scheduled to begin October 27, 1955, at the rate of 100,000,000 cubic feet a day with an additional 50,000,000 feet daily scheduled for each of the following three years, depending on the gas being made available and obtaining of permits.

Trans-Canada proposes to construct a large diameter pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada.

The contract between Northern and Trans-Canada is contingent on obtaining several government permits and completing financing, Merriam said, but he predicted it would be effective on schedule.

Vancouver TLC Rejects Joint Labor Candidate

VANCOUVER (CP)—There will be no joint labor candidates in Vancouver's civic elections this year.

Vancouver's Trades and Labor Council Tuesday night accepted a recommendation of its executive that it refrain from joining its CCL counterpart this year in sponsoring labor candidates for civic offices.

However, if candidates can be found and funds raised the TLC council may independently sponsor candidates for half the seats on the various civic bodies.

Nude Photographs Ruled Not Obscene

WASHINGTON (AP)—Municipal Judge Frank Myers has ruled that "a beautiful woman with a beautiful body" can pose for nude photographs without necessarily being obscene.

Judge Myers ruled that a woman might in later years want to look with nostalgia at such photos should she feel "nature has dealt unkindly with those beautiful talents."

"Nudeness is not, as such, obscene," Judge Myers ruled, acquitting Murry Levy, 41, of a charge of keeping obscene photos in his studio.

City Millmen Ask CN to Cut Wharfage Fee

The Greater Victoria Mill Operators Association has obtained harbor development and shipping group of the Chamber of Commerce endorsement of their request for lower wharfage rates in Victoria from the Canadian National Railways.

At a meeting Tuesday afternoon, Stan Moore of Moore-Whittington Lumber Company, spokesman for the association, said the GVMOA wants the CNR to reduce the rate from the present 75 cents per thousand and board feet to 50 cents. This would match rates at wharves at other island points.

"There is inconsistency in charges," he said. "At Port Alberni, (a government assembly dock) mill operators pay only $1 per thousand for storage, wharfage and handling. In Victoria the total comes to about $2.25. One company up-island has a private contract with the CNR allowing them a 25 cent per thousand wharfage rate."

"If something isn't done, most of us here will begin using scows for transportation," Mr. Moore said.

Victoria ships some 10 million feet of lumber each month. Members of the harbor group instructed that the Chamber's board of directors be asked to draft a letter supporting the association's request.

Four Police Forces Hunt Bank Robber

KEEWATIN, Ont. (CP)—Police of four forces have pooled resources to search for a brazen gunman who robbed a bank here, Tuesday, of approximately $5,000.

RCMP, Ontario Provincial Police, Kenora and Keewatin police are looking for the robber, about 26, who walked into the Royal Bank of Canada branch at this northwestern Ontario town, menaced manager Harold Rolston with a shotgun, and escaped in a waiting taxi.

Three Winnipeg men, arrested in Winnipeg Tuesday night, were released once it was established they were not connected with the robbery. Their automobile was seen at Keewatin earlier.

Another suspect, found in the thickly wooded area near Keewatin shortly after the hold-up occurred, was held at Kenora jail for questioning.

Bank manager Rolston denied an earlier report which said between $12,000 and $15,000 was stolen.

1 Known Dead As 100 Aged Flee N.S. Fire

Officials Begin Check for Others

TRURO, N.S. (BUP)—Flames raced through a 50-year-old wooden home for the aged near here today but most of its 100 elderly inhabitants calmly walked out to safety.

Firemen said only one person was known to have died in the early morning blaze which destroyed the Colchester County Home. The unidentified victim turned around after being evacuated and returned to his third-floor room for his possessions. Firemen attempted to rescue him by ladder but after coming half way out a window he apparently became confused and jumped back into the blazing room.

Officials of the home said it was not immediately known whether there were any other casualties. They began a check of the survivors who scattered through the crowd. Some were taken in their night clothing to Truro Canadian Legion Hall by bus.

Truro firemen were called to the blaze at North River, five miles from here, at 6 a.m. A shortage of water prevented them from saving the main building and they concentrated on halting the spread of the flames.

Firemen said the fire appeared to have started near the main chimney.

Labrador Headed for Aleutians

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy's Arctic patrol ship HMCS Labrador, first warship to navigate the Northwest Passage, is heading south to Bering Sea and is expected to reach the Aleutians in a few days and Esquimalt, B.C., about Oct. 1, the navy said today.

The patrol vessel, making her first cruise, is in company with two U.S. icebreakers which have been carrying out oceanographic and hydrographic surveys.

MET OFF MELVILLE

The Labrador made a rendezvous with the U.S. ships in August off Melville Island after plowing through heavy ice in Viscount Melville Sound.

The Labrador and the icebreakers have been travelling slowly westward since the rendezvous, conducting surveys on the way.

They entered Beaufort Sea in the Arctic Ocean via Prince of Wales Strait and continued to their present position along the north coast of Alaska.

The Labrador left Halifax July 23. By the time she reaches Esquimalt she will have covered about 7,500 miles in nine weeks.

UK Labor Abandons German Arms Support

Party Switch Raises Obstacles To Unified Policy Within Britain

LONDON (UP)—Western plans for German rearmament hit another snag today when the British Labor Party scrapped its policy of unqualified support of plans to include West German troops in west European defenses.

The party's national executive committee approved instead a vague resolution calling for "consultation with other European Socialist parties in an endeavor to draw up a common policy."

The resolution wrote an end to the previous Labor Party policy of all-out support for German rearmament.

The European Army Plan, a major feature of the American-backed European Defense Community (EDC) system of treaties, was killed by France.

France now is pressing for widened British commitments to some new form of European defense setup which would eventually include German troops. The Labor Party resolution raises the threat of new obstacles to any such scheme.

The resolution suggests that whatever common policy eventually is formulated by Europe's Socialist parties should consider how arrangements can best be made "for a German contribution to collective security."

The 375 lay and clerical delegates were told in the report of a special commission on re-unification that moves toward the creation of a new great church have bogged down.

But they decided to keep trying when Dr. George Dorey, their new moderator, rose to say in a voice shaking with emotion, "We must come together or perish."

VIEW ROYALITES 'FENCED IN'

Thetis Cove Log Storage Before Ottawa for Decision

Department of Transport officials here today told the Times they are awaiting direction from Ottawa over vigorous complaints of excessive log storage and dangerous conditions created by drifting cull logs in Thetis Cove and the waters fronting View Royal.

FENCED IN

At a meeting of the View Royal Community Association members this week a resolution was unanimously passed condemning "flagrant misuse of navigable waters of the cove by a logging company. Conditions, they said, left them 'fenced in'."

Newton D. Cameron, manager of Sooke Lake Lumber Company, appeared to speak on behalf of the company.

E. E. Pearlman appeared as counsel for Capt. W. B. Holmes, 157 View Royal Avenue, and explained that pilings had been driven to hold booms as much as 200 feet beyond the legal limit set by law.

"In addition, the use of small boats in the area has become impossible occasionally and precarious at all times apart from the overcrowding of booms because the harbor was littered with drift cull logs and bark," Mr. Pearlman said.

HEAVY SUPPLY

Mr. Cameron explained that the heavy massing of logs was chiefly due to the fact there had been no lay-off at logging camps because of the wet summer.

He said a company generally keeps about a 45-day supply of logs on hand to feed a mill. The manager said that from the lesson learned he did not think the company would repeat on buying three sea-going booms from other points as was done this year.

In reply to a question Mr. Cameron admitted the company did not have authority to drive pilings beyond the legal limit but that at least the pilings prevented a greater mess than was the present picture.

NO AUTHORITY

Mr. Cameron admitted they had no authority to tie booms to naval buoys "but the navy has never complained."

Indignant members told of the night danger to sport-fishermen in the harbor and also damage done to shorefront wharves and moored boats by loose logs.

The association resolution asks the proper authority to take steps to see that storage areas are not illegally extended, that all future granting of such water leases be published in the newspapers and people concerned allowed to peruse the plans, opposed any further storage areas in the inlet and called for steps to control cull logs.

Ontario Concerned Over Unemployment

TORONTO (BUP)—Premier Leslie Frost announced today that the Ontario government has arranged a survey of measures designed to combat a possible recession.

Frost said provincial economist George Gathercole would "assess the whole public investment program from an economic standpoint" and added, "We've been frankly concerned about unemployment."

Kiwanis Town Must Expand

Long Waiting List of Aged People Indicates Great Need, Says Mallek

Possibility that Kiwanis Village Society will expand present facilities for elderly people's housing was voiced by president Ed Mallek at the annual meeting Tuesday.

Already faced with a lengthy list of aged couples wishing village accommodation on Cedar Hill Road, the society is aware of the added need of elderly widows and widowers for comfortable, low-cost housing.

Presently completed facilities are designed for couples only, or survivors of an elderly couple located at the village.

COST $270,000

Erected at a cost of $270,000 on a little more than two acres of property, the village is adjacent to 12 acres of city-owned property which could be obtained by the society.

"Obviously we haven't stopped," said Mallek, referring both to the need for more accommodation and the availability of land. "Eventually we will have to face the problem of these elderly single people."

Final work on 34 double units and eight single units will come to an end in November after two years of construction.

$20 A MONTH

Rental cost per unit at $20 a month is second lowest of any comparable housing project in Canada in spite of construction cost per unit being highest in the country.

Average cost to build one unit at Kiwanis Village was $6,420, with the reason given that each "was built to last," and was well furnished.

Similar units rent for from $19 a month to municipally-owned cottages at $35 a month in other parts of Canada.

Kiwanians hold a mortgage for $70,000, which president Mallek said would be met when due without resorting to public subscription.

"The Village is a good place to invest private endowments," he said.

201 Rescued As Norwegian Ship Founders

OSLO (AP)—The Norwegian coast express steamer Nordstjernen, with 157 passengers and 46 crew members on board, ran aground and floundered in the Strait of Raftsund, off the Lofoten islands, early today.

Newspaper reports said one passenger was drowned and one crew member is missing, with all the rest saved.

The Nordstjernen, of about 2,000 tons, hit the bottom while steaming at top speed at 2 a.m. Most of the passengers were sleeping in their cabins, and were roused by the alarm signals.

Although the ship was sinking quickly, there was no panic aboard. The Nordstjernen floundered within 15 minutes.

Ford Workers Resume Talks On Wage Dispute

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Ford Motor Company of Canada and Local 200, United Automobile Workers, CIO-CIL, today resumed negotiations in a swift sequel to authorization by the union of strike action in a vote Sunday.

Following the brief session Monday, it was announced company and union will continue talks at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The announcement came from both sources.

The company statement said its representatives will continue to meet as often as necessary to endeavor to find a possible area of agreement.

No date was set for a strike but a union steward committee Sunday recommended that the deadline come within two weeks. A union spokesman said Monday no deadline will likely be set in advance.

4 HURT AS GAS BLAST ROCKS BRITISH COMMONS

LONDON (Reuters)—An explosion today shook the medieval vaults under the House of Commons where 350 years ago Guy Fawkes stored his gunpowder and tried to blow up Parliament.

The explosion, due to an escape of gas, occurred near the staff kitchens. It slightly injured two maintenance engineers and two women on the kitchen staff, but did no structural damage.

It was in the part of the basement ceremonially searched by the yeomen of the guard before each new parliament to commemorate the capture of the anti-parliamentarian Fawkes before he could set fire to his gunpowder.

They will do so again Oct. 18, eve of the new session. Parliament is at present in recess.

174,000 Seeking Jobs In Canada Last Month

OTTAWA (CP)—Employment in Canada continued to rise during August, but the number at work still was less than a year earlier.

The government's monthly survey of employment estimated that at Aug. 21 there were 4,748,000 persons working full time and 174,000 without jobs and looking for work.

A year earlier, there had been 4,820,000 at work and 92,000 seeking employment.

The estimates were made by the bureau of statistics, which issues the monthly report jointly with the department of labor.

The department's figures showed that at Aug. 19 there were 254,800 persons registered for jobs with national employment service, compared with 263,514 a month earlier and 164,793 a year previously.

The bureau figures would indicate a slight rise in unemployment between late July and late August, though the labor department's figures show the trend still in the other direction.

One of the statements alleged that Ross was "trafficking" in taxi licenses and had sold 27 such licenses for $123,000.

The Challenge Accepted

NOT SINCE CONFEDERATION has a Prime Minister tackled the problem of French-speaking Canada with the courage and bluntness shown last Saturday by Mr. Louis St. Laurent. With outspoken words that took the breath of Canadians accustomed all their lives to governmental soft phrases and diplomatic tact where Quebec is concerned, this leader of French descent took a stand that, without regard to any of his other great accomplishments, will assure him a remembered place in the history of Canada.

In one epochal speech, delivered without written text and straight from the heart to a small party group, but designed to be heard by all ten provinces and particularly Quebec, the Prime Minister came directly to grips with the great divisive force in Canadian national life. He boldly threw down the gauntlet to Quebec's Premier Duplessis and the isolationists grouped behind him under the banner of "provincial rights." He called on French Canada to be Canadian before it is provincial; to be nationally minded before it is parochial.

In so doing, Mr. St. Laurent directly challenged the power of Premier Duplessis and his Union Nationale. He put the question of Federal Government policy on a plain basis of "if you don't like it, don't vote for us." He dug deep into the roots of Canadian nationhood and spread them wide for a firmer grip in the soil of this continent.

Today he is planning to stomp Quebec in a "campaign of education." If he is successful he will put a curb on the ambitions of Maurice Duplessis, defeat the separatist movement and bring a reality and unity to Confederation that Canada has never yet fully achieved.

If he loses, he may plunge the country into the worst political chaos of its history, and wreck the work of national unification that was the dominant concern of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's thirty years of party and Government leadership.

The gamble is enormous and Mr. St. Laurent has not entered upon it without long thought. The campaign of Mr. Duplessis to displace Mr. St. Laurent as acknowledged leader of French-speaking Canadians has been growing over a period of years. The Quebec provincial chief has employed considerations of race, religion and the deep instinct of the French Canadian to preserve his entity in a country in which he is a minority. These are powerful forces, and Mr. Duplessis has not always used them for the good of Canada or of the people whose cause he professes to champion.

Shawnigan's Bitter Lesson

THE STATEMENT OF THE Shawnigan Lake school governors is not altogether satisfying. It seems to be in conflict with the story told the press by the luckless master, John Michael Hewitt; it talks vaguely about a "regrettable misunderstanding"; it expresses the wish that this matter, which has become an international incident through the protest of Dorothy Holtz' father, should be settled in camera.

The public would have appreciated a franker statement of the facts. It knows simply that the Jamaican girl found it necessary to return to her West Indies home. The fact that the school has now offered to bring her back, with her father, at the school's expense, would seem to indicate that Shawnigan recognizes a heavy responsibility for the unhappy events of the past few weeks.

There can be no denying that serious damage has been done Canada's good standing abroad. It was this consideration which prompted the Hon. Robert W. Mayhew, Victoria's ambassador to Japan, to make his generous offer of quarters for the aggrieved young couple. Mr. Mayhew recognizes the harm that can be done our External Affairs people in foreign lands by the dis-

Mr. St. Laurent appeals to French Canada on a higher plane. "The Federal Government," he says, "will never recognize that a single province is more important than the entire country."

On only one other occasion has the issue been so clearly posed. In the early days of the last war, Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, under Mr. King's leadership, rallied Quebec behind him with an appeal to Canadianism and the need to present a united front to the enemy. Mr. Duplessis, then as now stridently championing Quebec's "autonomy," went down to defeat in the provincial election he had forced.

Mr. Duplessis is a politician. Mr. St. Laurent is a statesman. Yet statesmanship alone would not be enough to carry the Prime Minister's campaign. No Canadian leader of English descent could so speak to Quebec. The man who would lay the bogey of separatism, risk the loss of the solid block of Quebec federal seats for his party, hazard the fortunes of his nation and his party perhaps for generations to come, must himself be a son of Quebec; he must be French, Roman Catholic, and bear the record, as Mr. St. Laurent does, of having served both his native province and his native land well.

In coming to his decision Mr. St. Laurent must have been conscious of the fact that if such a great task is to be done by such a man, then it must be done now. Although the Prime Minister's health is good and his energy still available he is in his seventy-third year. He has given no intimation of retirement but he cannot remain at the helm forever. His successor will not likely be French-Canadian. Hence the separatists' challenge to Canadian unity called for a now-or-never reply.

The immediate matters of conflict between Ottawa and Quebec—the federal-provincial tax agreement, the question of federal deductions for provincial levies—are of minor importance in the light of the fundamental issue now raised. Nearer to the core of the matter is the controversy over Quebec's imposition of restrictions on the civil rights of Canadians living within the province's borders, for this goes deep into the question of nationhood.

Experience has shown that when a fundamental choice must be made, the Quebecois has shown himself to be Canadian first and provincial second. It is to that deep-rooted instinct of Canada's first settlers that Mr. St. Laurent now appeals. On the answer must depend much of the success or failure of Canada's future as a nation.

crimination story. His name, attached to the offers should go a long way to show that official Canada does not recognize a color bar.

Mr. Mayhew says that his sole aim in making the offer was to "bridge this thing and bring the young people together again for a fresh start." He feels that a mistake has been made and that there is little point in perpetuating bitterness and recriminations, to the discredit of the school.

This wise and sensible view, characteristic of His Excellency, will have many supporters in Victoria. Down through the years, Shawnigan Lake school has had a good reputation in this area. Its present headmaster, G. Peter Kaye, gave up an important position in B.C.'s financial world three years ago to inject new life in the school and double its enrollment. It would be a pity to see his hard work dissipated by a single unfortunate incident of this kind.

Whatever the intimate rights or wrongs of the case, Shawnigan Lake school must certainly have learned a bitter lesson. The people of Canada have long since outgrown the narrow prejudices manifest in racial discrimination. They expect their schools, public and private, to be "the dwelling places of freedom."

No Seat for Red China

NO MATTER WHAT ARGUMENTS Red China may have been advancing for propaganda purposes, the leaders of the Peiping government could have had little expectation that their bid for a seat in the United Nations would succeed. The communists' application was defeated last year by a 44-10 vote, only a handful of satellites and neutrals supporting Russia's motion. Yesterday's vote saw the same result.

Red Chinese aggression in Korea is still too fresh in mind, particularly in the United States which took the brunt of the cost in lives and material. There is still the determination that no country shall be permitted to "shoot its way into the UN." And the lesser examples of friction that have exasperated the Western peoples during the past year—the captivity of British and American citizens, the shooting down of civilian planes off the Chinese coast—did nothing to better Peiping's chances. This must have been known by the Communist Chinese rulers. But it was necessary for propaganda purposes at home as well as abroad that the attempt be made. The next step may well be more serious.

Since the present "Chinese" seat in the UN is filled by a representative of Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa government, Peiping may now argue that this impediment to Red Chinese recognition must be removed. Recent warlike moves along the China coast and the island of Quemoy could be the prelude to more aggressive action, with all the implications of the United States guarantee of support to Chiang Kai-shek.

In any case, Red China has been rejected by the world organization, and a possible cause of friction between Britain and the United States, has been postponed.

By DAVID BROCK

A LITTLE GIRL whom I know quite well was busily working herself into a state of hysteria and panic over a visit to the dentist. All that the toothwright was going to do was to put some bands on her teeth, to straighten them. This operation did not involve hacking her to pieces, any more than placing a ring on your finger involves mangleing the finger. But she would not be comforted. I said to her brother (a young philosopher of almost 13) that I was willing to bet she got most of her ideas of dentistry from stock jokes in the comic books.

IN FACT (I went on), I'd bet that hundreds and thousands of cockeyed ideas came from the comic books. For example, it is a tradition among funny men of the most primitive sort that moving a lawn is not only tedious but agonizing. . . . It is torture of the most fiendish type. After a while, kids begin to believe this joke, and so do many grown-ups . . . much to the satisfaction of the makers of power-mowers. And not only does the lightest work seem brutal, but to grumble incessantly about it is a social obligation. All this because a handful of funny men have sterile minds.

The boy said, in some surprise, "But that's true! Yes, that's true." And then, in far more surprise, "But how did YOU know it?" Well, how could one avoid knowing it, if one watches a few kids, and reads a few comics? Good heavens, the very grimaces of a startled child are based on what he thinks a startled character in the comics would look like.

IT USED TO BE thought wrong to have a child imitating the great military heroes of old. But I'd rather see a kid imitating Richard the Lion-hearted than imitating Bugs Bunny. The great danger of the movies (among grown-ups, too, of course) has always seemed to me to be less the creation of Sicilian thugs than the creation of an almost universal vulgarity . . . a cheapness in the world's ideas of love, happiness, success, and so on. And in their smaller way, the comic books may do far less harm with horror than they do with a general lowering of all standards, all values. They give a child some extremely cheap ideas about what is funny, what is smart, what is desirable, what is unbearable, and so on. Beginning and ending with the proposition that life without comics would be unbearable indeed!

HOT TIPS MY JAPANESE quince bushes have more quinces on them, and bigger ones, than ever before. Who says we had a bad summer? It was a nifty summer for quinces! Wondering what to do with the things, besides adding greatly to all jellies and jams, I looked up quince in Andre Simon's wonderful one-volume Encyclopaedia of Gastronomy. He says that just as the quince is at its best in improving apple jelly, so does it work its magic on apple pie . . . a small slice of quince will do. Quince was once essential to apple pie, and Simon implies that the world has been a poorer place since this tradition died out.

IT OCCURS to me that you (or I) could compile a valuable little cookery book made up entirely of old tips and hints and tricks and dodges and customs that have foolishly died out. It might, of course, be advisable to test a few of the ideas first, before praising them! I have not tried the quince slice in my apple pie yet, though I plan to do it before the week is out. I shall dedicate the book, when I compile it, to Professor Charles G. King, of Columbia University, who recently said that food is far better and more enjoyable today than it ever was before. He spoke as a chemist, the director of the Nutrition Foundation, and the men who identified Vitamin C.

AS an example of the horrors of old-time cookery, Professor King said that only a food faddist or a quack would be stupid enough or liar enough to wish to return to the wicked days when families kept chickens and pigs in the backyard. I can assure him that many chefs and good eaters lament the disappearance of the animal allowed to feed itself naturally. The modern animal, kept in a concentration camp and fed on scientific groceries, may have a bigger body but he has a thinner taste; sometimes he hasn't any taste at all.

And even when science could do something for him, science refuses. For example, a few Scotch farmers (but very few) are well aware that seashore bacon and ham taste better because the pigs are eating a certain amount of seaweed. An even smaller group is aware that you can duplicate this rare taste in inland pigs by feeding them small amounts of iodine. And it is worth knowing (and doing) because you can build up a luxury trade in your ham and bacon. But science would merely laugh at this. And it is fair to add, so would most farmers.

TV THE most impassioned enemy of television is probably P. G. Wodehouse . . . he who is usually an enemy of almost nothing. And his blasts against TV are pretty effective, too. The late Hilaire Belloc wasn't being perverse when he called Wodehouse the best living writer. But not even Wodehouse comes within a mile of the final word on TV, which was written in a letter to the editor of an English paper. It is the final word, and quite literally one word. The writer (a woman whose name I forget) dismissed TV as a "peepshow." That is the final criticism. It is perfect. Class dismissed. Go back to your peepshow.

Prejudice and the Public

IF MY SON WERE A PUPIL You report a bride at Shawnigan Lake School being required to quit the premises.

If my son were a pupil at such a place I should bring him home with all possible speed.

It's one pity for the bride and ten thousand pities for young impressionable minds.

DEEPLY DISTURBED

I am among those who are deeply disturbed at the treatment meted out to a Jamaican girl, Mrs. Hewitt, by the Shawnigan Lake School. If there are circumstances connected with this unfortunate incident that justify such action the public should know. Otherwise suspicion of a most unwholesome nature will be leveled at those who are responsible for this act. It is most undesirable that a Canadian school should be responsible for soiling the fair name of Canada in the matter of race relationships. As Canadians, we have a right to know why it was deemed necessary to take such extreme measures.

G. R. EASTER

First Baptist Church.

LETTER TO SHAWNIGAN SCHOOL

I know you're sick and tired of letters disapproving your actions regarding the banned bride. This letter I realize will be scoffed at seeing as it comes from a mere high school girl.

However, I'm ashamed of being a Canadian in a city so primitive and undemocratic. Matters of less importance than this have caused mass murder. It is said that you feared your school boys' parents may dislike the presence of a colored person. You did not want the boys to see her.

It is the children of today that form the Canada of tomorrow. What children of such narrow-minded training will turn out like—makes me disgusted to think. Her skin was a different hue than ours so you sent her home. How very Christian.

A very humble apology is owed to a very fine people. Don't underestimate the error of your conceived ways. A mere "I'm sorry"—while not erasing a disgusting mistake—would definitely ease matters.

Whether or not she returns depends on the bigness of these people. They are proud, not dogs begging you to change your minds. What a slap-in-the-face return to the hospitality which Mr. Hewitt received in Jamaica.

My hope is that Jamaicans won't think one snobbish school represents the attitude of Canadians. It was an honor to us that she left her people to come to a new country.

SALLY GARDOM.

2091 Byron St.

REMEMBERING JAMAICANS

May I voice my own opinion and that of many others to whom I have spoken on the treatment meted out to a young lady, the bride of one of the teachers at Shawnigan Lake School, which institution I presume, is for the education of young Canadians?

Canada is a democratic country where there is no color bar, so why such snobbery? Is teaching that idea part of the curriculum?

I should like to give you my own personal experience of two Jamaicans I had the pleasure of traveling with to the Vimy pilgrimage. Along with hundreds of other passengers, we had on our ship Mr. and Mrs. Christian, both natives of Jamaica. Mr. Christian had sacrificed both his hands and both his feet fighting for Canada in the 1914-18 war. His wife was a graduate nurse who had also been in the service.

Amongst the other passengers was a Canadian woman, who, from the time we sailed from Montreal, until after the unveiling of the Vimy Memorial, never was sober. In fact, she was always so drunk that whenever we had to walk any distance she always had a man on each side of her to hold her up. Mr. Christian although handicapped by quadruple amputations had learned to walk with two artificial feet, and also manipulate knives and forks with artificial limbs, and was a credit and example to all who met him.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Christian were a joy and pleasure to meet. Perhaps the "governors" of Shawnigan Lake School would prefer to turn down such as they were, because of their so-called "color" in favor of that Canadian drunkard, because she was a so-called "white woman."

I wonder if in that institution of culture, they have ever learned or read the words of Edgar Guest, "Not pigment hue stamps me and you, but what we are."

REV. EDITH A. MAYELL

GOLDEN RULE

Will you kindly publish the following article prompted by racial discrimination at Shawnigan.

The sole object in publishing this is to bring men and women together in a spirit of closer co-operation, regardless of race or creed, and cause them to realize the award which awaits all who place principle above the dollar and humanity above the individual; to inspire those who have not yet "arrived" and help them to realize that the rainbow's end can be found only by the pathway which leads through the field of useful service; to teach men and women the uselessness and folly of hatred, envy and intolerance; to bring men to realize that success lies not so much in owning property as in rendering service which helps to ameliorate the hardships of humanity and deposits something to the credit of posterity; to find the secret doorway to its readers' hearts and plant wholesome thoughts where destructive ones existed before.

My belief is the "Golden Rule" ought to become the guiding star in all human relationships and especially in business, industry and commerce.

No wealth or position can permanently endure unless founded upon truth and justice.

MRS. A. KIRKBRIDE.

2205 Chambers Street.

LOOK TO OURSELVES

Are we all properly indignant over this taint of racial prejudice that has cropped up in our body social? Good.

Prejudice that results in such intolerance most certainly deserves the severest condemnation, but I hope that a lot of people, who will take this opportunity to hurl their two-bits' worth of obloquy onto the headmaster of the Shawnigan Lake School, will remember the moral of the tale told of Jesus, who extended his fellowship to a lady of damaged reputation while drawing water at a well—that of sanctimony.

Let's put it this way. How undiscriminating would you feel if you were in the Crystal Pool the day a large brotherhood of Jewish Negroes decided to make their annual picnic into a swimming party?

If the headmasters are the mature, intelligent men that one would expect to find directing a home of education, it should make a great deal of difference what color of complexion is associated with their faculty members. But what probably does make a great deal of difference to the directors of a private institution, that depends on public support, is the tide of public opinion. I wonder if their action was prompted, not by concern over the presence of Mrs. Hewitt per se, but concern over the opinion of their public, that would be raised over her presence.

If that is so, we had better all look critically at ourselves.

It is partly to our credit, and mostly due to fortuitous accident, that the cancer of race prejudice has not grown in our society. We have comparatively little contact with it. The sufferers claim that racial equality cannot be established overnight. Unfortunately, they are correct, for if the problem would submit to such a quick cure, it would no longer exist. Racial prejudice may be likened to a social neurosis, due to a perversion of certain basic psychological necessities. Psychotherapy is a patient, drawn-out process: even in the individual mind. It will require a correspondingly long treatment for the social mind.

TOMMY PAWLICKY

Box 1974, RR 3, Victoria.

RACIAL SUPERIORITY

Is it possible that here in British Columbia men of the stature of headmasters and lawyers can still harbor in their minds the obsolete, discredited superstition of colored inferiority. Truly, this is amazing. Haven't these men read Boas, Mead, Dunn? Don't they know that anthropologists have established that the factual basis on which to build a theory of white supremacy simply does not exist?

In the supposedly more edifying atmosphere of our private schools the antiquated junk of racial discrimination is being insinuated into the innocent minds of our young. Can you imagine this: "You must leave home the boys come and see a colored person here." Just what reaction did Headmaster Kaye envisage had the boys seen Mrs. Hewitt? Would they have jerked in at St. Vitus' dance? Would they have turned into stone? Honestly, now, is it too much to suppose that the boys might have simply and innocently accepted Mrs. Hewitt as the wife of one of their teachers? After all, what is there so extraordinary about a man marrying the woman of his choice?

It appears that it was just "poliev"—"nothing personal" was meant by asking Mrs. Hewitt to leave. Can you surpass this utter rot? An artist, a philosopher, a genius can be rejected purely on the grounds of skin coloring; but a dolt who hasn't a worthwhile thought in his head is readily acceptable because he is white. Can you devise a greater insult, inflict a deeper hurt? "Nothing personal," indeed!

What school is this where the authorities can not only condone, but actually perpetuate a bigoted, fallacious doctrine? If this is a representative sample, what kind of other drive is being drummed into the brains of the pupils?

Nice to Look at Any Way

Exchange

NOW THAT Canada's new bank notes are circulating throughout the land, it is supposed that several million citizens will essay the role of art critics. Since professional critics seldom agree, these are unlikely to either.

It matters little; the satisfied will part with the cherished designs in exchange for groceries with a sigh of regret and then go briskly about the business of collecting more, and the dissenters will be disposed to get rid of their money all the faster, but no one is going to refuse acceptance of any denomination of bills.

Apart from the matter of artistic tastes, the pretty picture on the reverse side may have a mixed reception.

Is there any special significance in the fact that a Western prairie scene rates the humble dollar bill, while for a village scene in Central Canada—the chosen denomination is $1,000? Either prairie dwellers will feel slighted, or else they will be most happy that their own region of the country is going to receive more attention than any other, considering the number of dollar bills in circulation compared with those of higher value.

But Central Canada doesn't do too badly from the standpoint of publicity, for it has its picture taken also on a two-dollar bill. Is it an Ontario or Quebec scene? The artist has cunningly left this an open question.

Canadians on the Pacific Coast may demur at their region being represented by a peak in the Rockies, a long way from the saltchuck. Maritimers, on the other hand, should have no complaint with the Atlantic seascapes, although they may glimpse it infrequently because the view has been placed on a $50 bill.

All denominations have one item in common — the Queen's head, and the same portrait which aroused such an outcry when it appeared on an issue of postage stamps. After that unhappy experience it might have been supposed that the design selectors would have displayed some caution. Or perhaps they enjoy stirring up controversy.

St. Laurent's Great Statement

ABOUT six years ago, during a pause in an impassioned political speech by Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis, a little man jumped up in the audience and cried:

"What about St. Laurent?"

M'sieu Duplessis flashed one of his most genial smiles. "Never yet," he cried, "has the St. Laurent overthrown the St. Maurice!"

To anyone who has ever visited M. Duplessis' home town of Three Rivers, and seen the confluence of those two great bodies of water (an early observer added another river by mistake), this was a clever ad lib, characteristic of the premier's ability in the rough and tumble of the hustings.

Keate

But today, after a week-end of historic speeches in the ancient province, the joke of six years ago seems to take on a new significance. The two mighty powers have met, head-on, and all Canada wonders about the outcome. Will the St. Laurent at last overcome the St. Maurice?

It is an interesting clash, because they are interesting men. Both are natives of Quebec, and lawyers, but there the similarity (and there was not much similarity in their law practices) ends. M. Duplessis has been prominent in the political life of Quebec since 1923. Mr. St. Laurent is a latecomer, having entered politics as a wartime deputy when he was past 60 years of age. M. Duplessis is a bachelor; Mr. St. Laurent is a devoted family man, colloquially known across the country as "Uncle Louis."

More significantly, Mr. St. Laurent is an internationalist, a friend and confidante of most of the world's great leaders. M. Duplessis has never ventured off the provincial stage.

It used to be said in Quebec that Duplessis envied the prime minister; he was the one French-Canadian of greater stature than he. Whether or not that is true, the fact remains that he has used Mr. St. Laurent and the Liberal government at Ottawa as whipping boys in all his frenetic political campaigns.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Needless Fears

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

So many of the patients I see in a month are ill because they are so full of fears and apprehensions. Often they have felt an ache somewhere, for which no doctor has found a cause. As the persons says, if only he knew it wasn't going to turn into anything, or that it wasn't due to a cancer, or wasn't going to kill him, he would forget about it; it wouldn't bother him much. It isn't bad enough so that he needs a sedative, and it doesn't disturb his sleep. There are only two things that are making an invalid out of him: one, the fact that he cannot get out of his mind the thought that he is going to come down with some horrible disease; and two, the fact that repeated reassurance by physicians has not helped him.

Last week I saw a young man who, in the last two months, has seen six consulting physicians about a little ache in his chest muscles. Every one of the doctors told him that it didn't amount to anything; it was just a bit of fibrositis. I added my note of encouragement, but the betting is good that this week he is seeing more physicians. Curiously, the man acts as if he were hunting desperately for someone who would say he has a cancer or some other incurable disease!

Obviously, such a person is not behaving sensibly, and in this case I found that the man comes from a family full of "worriers." One of his aunts who is like him has spent her life going from one hospital to another. If she gets a pimple on her face she rushes to a hospital, and begs for penicillin, cortisone and ACTH.

When one is born full of such phobias it is hard to fight them, but it is much better to fight them than to give in to them. If one gives in to them easily, one is soon likely to be enslaved to them.

SICK HEADACHES

Back in 1873, Dr. Edward Living wrote a remarkable book on Megrin or sick headache (Megrin or the modern form, migraine, comes from the Latin hemigrania, or "half the head"). He knew the disease well because he had it himself. Because he reported honestly what he and his patients had experienced, his book is still of great value today. Unfortunately, it is a rare book; my copy which I ran onto in London years ago is one of my treasured possessions.

One of the interesting things that Living said is that a woman is likely to get a headache if she gets her brain over-stimulated by excitement or overwork. "A day of sightseeing in town—a long railway journey—a public spectacle or military review—are pretty sure to be followed in some individuals by one or more attacks. Even entertainments are particularly trying. The concerts, the playhouse, the evening assembly, and even the church, present the combination of impressions, glaring lights and impure air, together with a certain element of emotional excitement, which are extremely prejudicial, and should be shunned as far as possible by the sufferers from megrim who must content themselves with simpler forms of social enjoyment."

Even children who have inherited a tendency to migraine will often come home from school prostrated and vomiting, especially on the day of an examination or a school picnic.

CONTACT LENSES.

All those persons who are wondering about contact lenses and wishing they knew more about the situation could get help from a fine article by Dr. D. P. Choyce in a recent number of the British Journal of Ophthalmology. He sent out questionnaires to 785 users of ventilated contact lenses and compared the answers he got with the answers returned to Dr. A. G. Cross from a questionnaire sent out to 875 users of non-ventilated lenses. Cross reported in the British Journal of Ophthalmology in 1949. In both series, some 60 per cent of the lenses were used because of short-sightedness.

The fitting of both types of lenses is time-consuming and according to the writers, the average number of sessions required was around 20.

Among the 144 persons who had worn both the ventilated and the non-ventilated lenses, 83 per cent preferred the former, usually because they produced less "veiling," and were more comfortable. Often contact lenses are worn by people on the stage, athletes, and persons who, in public, hate to wear heavy glasses needed for near-sightedness.

Dr. Alvarez regrets he hasn't the time in which to read or answer requests for information.

FROM ROOF TO BASEMENT POOF! CHIMNEY'S FAST

WINNIPEG (CP)—A youngster at play on the top of a building went from roof to ground floor Tuesday night by way of the chimney.

Fifteen-year-old Brian Smith was taken to hospital with head injuries after falling down the chimney while playing with two companions on the roof of the YCMA building in suburban St. James. His condition was described as fair.

He dropped 16 feet to the ground-floor level and was imprisoned until police got him out through an opening put there for the benefit of chimney cleaners.

Fortunately there was no fire.

Church of England Sells London Holdings

1,500 Buildings, Property in Paddington District Expected to Realize £2 Million

LONDON (Reuters)—The Church of England, one of Britain's biggest landlords, Tuesday announced plans for selling a large chunk of central London property in one of the biggest real estate deals of its history.

About 1,500 grim-looking Victorian buildings, on land that has been in church hands since the time of Henry VIII, will be put on the auction block next May and in the following year.

Church officials said Tuesday they hope to realize about £2,000,000 from the sale.

Even the church commissioners, who administer the church's holdings, are not sure how the property first came into their hands. Legends hint that Henry VIII seized it from a Roman Catholic bishop when he declared the Church of England independent from Rome, and then handed it over to one of his own bishops.

Whatever its origins, there is no doubt the area has seen better days. Located in the tough Paddington district, north of Hyde Park, it became known as a red light district during the war years and has been a source of considerable embarrassment for the church ever since.

Attlee in State of Exhaustion

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—An "utterly exhausted" Clement Attlee lit his pipe and fell asleep in the airport lounge here Tuesday night before leaving for London on the last lap of his round-the-world tour.

The fatigued former British prime minister sought some rest on arrival here and asked an immigration official: "Are there any reporters around?"

Assured there weren't he and Mrs. Attlee went into the lounge, where he puffed on his pipe a few minutes and then dropped off to sleep. His wife snoozed, too.

Before taking off he consented to have his picture taken but told reporters he didn't have anything to say.

"I've already said everything in Montreal. I'm utterly exhausted and will be happy to get back home."

SUMMER TAN WINS
NEW YORK (AP)—Summer Tan threw a monkey wrench into the two-year-old championship ambitions of Nashua Tuesday by beating to an Aqueduct track record in the $30,025 Cowdin Stakes.

Commercial TV 'Lunatic Arrangement'

'Dreadful' Says Anglican Primate

SASKATOON (CP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury says television is a most influential educational instrument but one which could make people "increasingly unable to be educated by anything at all."

Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher told a Saskatoon diocesan luncheon Tuesday the television bill passed by the British Parliament was "a lunatic arrangement."

The archbishop, now on a western Canada tour, referred to television in the United States and reports adults watched television an average of four hours a day.

"It's dreadful to think of it," he said.

KISS THE BABY, SHAKE PA's HAND

Old-Time Political Routines Tory Chief's New Road To Power

National Conservative president George Hees Tuesday promised the people of Canada an old-fashioned, door-knocking, baby-kissing, hand-shaking political campaign for the next federal election.

Mr. Hees, in Victoria on a tour of the west, is going to instruct federal Conservatives in B.C. in the party's new approach to politicking Thursday in Vancouver.

At that time, picked Tories from all ridings in the province will gather with Hees and the three federal Tory MPs to discuss details of the formation of a new federal organization.

Mr. Hees said the "grass-roots" campaign is aimed at "one thing only... getting federal members elected." He said Tory candidates are going to be named and put in the field at least a year before the next election, "instead of three weeks."

"We feel very optimistic about the next election," he said, "and any thinking person must agree that when one party has been in office for 20 years it is time for a change."

Mr. Hees said: "On the basis of national good, 20 years is too long."

The Tory president predicted the retirement of Prime Minister St. Laurent "during the next session" and a four or five-way split in Liberal ranks in choosing his successor.

"The Liberal party is weaker today than at any time since 1935," he claimed.

Mr. Howe, he said, will take over the reins from Mr. St. Laurent on a caretaker basis, and then "the Liberal party will be split from stem to gudgeon."

"Harris, Martin, Pickersgill and Pearson, and maybe Winters, will be fighting to be top man."

Other factors pointing to a Conservative victory next time out, according to Mr. Hees, are "adverse economic conditions, unemployment, and the Liberals' inability to govern in peace-time."

"With the exception of one or two, the entire cabinet is composed of war-babies," he said, "who have no idea of how to run the country in peace-time."

"For the health of the nation, it is time for a change, and the people are looking to us. We are the only national party that can form a national government."

Mr. Hees dismissed Social Credit and CCF as "local groups," unable to take over Capital Hill.

What are Tory plans for British Columbia? Mr. Hees repeatedly insisted that federal Tories are interested only in getting their new federal membership organization on the rails.

"We have no inclination to interfere in provincial matters, and we hope they won't interfere with us," he said. "We have no interest or aspirations in the provincial field."

"We won't get down on our knees and beg, we won't court them, and we take the attitude that when two men can't go along together, they may as well go along alone."

"The work of federal organization must be done. We won't argue about it, they can do their job, we will do ours."

TORIES TO SPELL OUT PARTY'S PRINCIPLES

The Conservative Party of Canada is going to re-examine and spell out its principles to the nation at the next annual meeting.

Tory national president George Hees said in Victoria Tuesday that Conservatives have come to realize that the principles for which they stand have been lost sight of.

"It is definitely a need, letting people know what our principles are, and it will be done probably at the annual meeting next March."

"Policies are a different thing," he said, "a live thing, and a moving thing, because a party with dormant policies is a dead party."

SWIM HEROINE GETS WARM WELCOME

Clutching Books, Lunch Bag, Marilyn Returns to School

TORONTO (CP). — Marilyn Bell went back to school today. The 16-year-old conqueror of Lake Ontario stepped out of her new convertible at Loretto College for Girls at 8:30 a.m., 40 minutes before her first class.

She clutched her books in one arm and carried her lunch bag in her hand.

Her fellow students crowded the hall when they heard of her arrival. Some of them had kept her class notes for her while she was away making the public appearances that followed her swim.

They hugged her and welcomed her back. Her teacher, Mother Chabanel, greeted her warmly.

"It is the most heroic thing she has done," Mother Chabanel said of Marilyn's return to school.

When she reached her Grade 12 classroom, Marilyn was surrounded by students from other grades who wanted to join in the welcome.

SPECIAL DAY

"After all," said one, "it's not every day a girl gives up Hollywood for high school and we all want to make this a memorable day."

Marilyn's teacher said she wasn't worried about her pupil's grades slipping.

"Her lowest mark since she has been with us was 58," she said. "After conquering Lake Ontario, Marilyn can conquer anything she sets her mind to."

ESTONIAN PRESIDENT

Likely to be named as successor to Alfred Maurer, president-in-exile of Estonia, who died recently in Stockholm, is a mild-mannered caretaker at Ryerson Institute in Toronto.

John Holberg, seen above, 45, a lawyer who served in the Estonian government for 30 years as a representative of the southern district, worked with the Estonian underground before escaping before the Russian invaders in 1940 when the Reds overran the country.

The president-in-exile came to Canada through Sweden and worked for two years as a bush worker near White River.

His fellow students crowded the hall when they heard of her arrival. Some of them had kept her class notes for her while she was away making the public appearances that followed her swim.

Visitors will be provided with extra entertainment when the Homesteaders record their regular radio show for later broadcast on CJVI.

Mr. Hees said the "grass-roots" campaign is aimed at "one thing only... getting federal members elected."

Mr. Howe, he said, will take over the reins from Mr. St. Laurent on a caretaker basis, and then "the Liberal party will be split from stem to gudgeon."

"Harris, Martin, Pickersgill and Pearson, and maybe Winters, will be fighting to be top man."

Other factors pointing to a Conservative victory next time out, according to Mr. Hees, are "adverse economic conditions, unemployment, and the Liberals' inability to govern in peace-time."

"With the exception of one or two, the entire cabinet is composed of war-babies," he said, "who have no idea of how to run the country in peace-time."

"For the health of the nation, it is time for a change, and the people are looking to us. We are the only national party that can form a national government."

Mr. Hees dismissed Social Credit and CCF as "local groups," unable to take over Capital Hill.

What are Tory plans for British Columbia? Mr. Hees repeatedly insisted that federal Tories are interested only in getting their new federal membership organization on the rails.

"We have no inclination to interfere in provincial matters, and we hope they won't interfere with us," he said. "We have no interest or aspirations in the provincial field."

"We won't get down on our knees and beg, we won't court them, and we take the attitude that when two men can't go along together, they may as well go along alone."

"The work of federal organization must be done. We won't argue about it, they can do their job, we will do ours."

33-YEAR-OLD FLOOR POLISHER WINS NEW ONE FOR HOSPITAL

Jubilee Hospital won a novel contest Tuesday and as a result is proud owner of a new $200 floor waxer.

Sponsored by Dustbane Company, the contest sought to locate the oldest polisher manufactured by that company which is still in use. Jubilee beat the rest of western Canada when a waxer 33 years old was found still in operation.

B.C. manager of the janitors' supply house, A. E. Hassett, made the presentation to W. Georgson, assistant purchaser.

U.S. Feared To Detonate Nation-Killer

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States has developed a "supergiant" H-bomb with the explosive punch of nearly 45,000,000 tons of TNT and the "probable" capacity to knock out a nation, a new book on the weapon said today.

The authors, James R. Shepley and Clay Blair Jr. of Time Magazine, reported that the estimated power of the bomb is so awesome that officials decided not to risk setting it off during the Eniwetok tests this spring.

When the first bomb fired during the tests released more than twice the destructive power that the scientists had anticipated, Shepley and Blair said the estimated strength of the "supergiant" was scaled sharply upward, "near the practical limit of thermonuclear weapons, 45 megatons, 2,400 times the force of Hiroshima."

"Gassy stomach embarrassed me"

says man who loves his food.

"I'm a big fellow, with a big appetite. But after a good meal I used to have gas on the stomach so bad I couldn't help belching and burping. A doctor suggested Digestif Rennie Tablets. Now, after a big meal—I suck one or two Rennies. If you're embarrassed by burps and belches, try Rennies," writes William J. Cook, Waterloo, Ont.

Don't let sour stomach or indigestion spoil a good meal—suck a Digestif Rennie Tablet. Rennies are gentle, with a drip-by-drip action that neutralizes excess acids—soothes upset, gassy stomach. 25c at drugists.

'POISONING THE PUBLIC MIND'

B.C., Quebec 'Anti-Union' Says Saskatchewan Premier

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (BUP)—Premier T. C. Douglas warned the second annual conference of the Saskatchewan Federation of Labor that anti-union forces were on the attack today, and pointed to British Columbia, Quebec and the United States as major opponents.

Those opposed to unionism have "mobilized all their resources to poison the public mind against unionism," he told the federation's banquet Saturday night. This movement has "borne some fruit," he said, citing legislation recently passed in British Columbia, Quebec and the United States which "has labor on the run."

The Saskatchewan premier said the only way to fight against anti-unionism would be to "never take the rights gained for granted."

Douglas, a former Baptist minister, said another problem facing labor was "the growing spectre of unemployment on this continent." He said he considered the loss of markets, a drop in price of the products produced and unemployment as all one problem.

The price the farmer receives for his products has dropped while the price in the stores for the same products has risen, he said. He said the industries which have dropped in production are those which are dependent on the farmer.

Douglas proposed a program of raising pensions, providing work for the unemployed, and giving away surplus. He said the last move would be a "final solution of the world peace in an atomic age," by turning other nations into friends.

BRITONS IN MIDDENS, WOOD IS THE MODE

CHISLEHURST, Eng. (Reuters)—Twenty men and women cave explorers made plans Tuesday to paint their bodies, dress in animal skins and descend into a quarter-mile-deep cave to eat a meal like their caveman ancestors.

The "Ancient Britons" will have a menu of mushrooms, edible fungi, wild fruits and nuts washed down with home-made beer, gulped from drinking horns.

Island Sailor Commissioned As Gunner

The promotion of Chief Petty Officer John Robertson Rafter, 33, of Ladysmith and Victoria, to the rank of acting commissioned gunner was announced today by naval headquarters in Ottawa.

Born at Ladysmith Oct. 29, 1920, Mr. Rafter entered the navy as a boy seaman in 1938, specializing in gunnery shortly thereafter.

During the Second World War he served in Canadian and British ships and establishments, including escorts on the North Atlantic. Sea time was gained in the destroyer Restigouche, Bangor minesweeper Truro, and British warships.

Since the war he has served on board the cruiser Uganda (now HMCS Quebec), the cruiser Ontario and in Canadian and United Kingdom training establishments. His recent promotion to commissioned rank came while he was undergoing courses overseas.

Mount Brenton PTA Executive Takes Office

LADYSMITH—Mrs. R. Hindmarch, president, District 67 PTA council, was installing officers when new executive members took their chairs at the first fall meeting of Mount Brenton PTA.

Presiding over the meetings for the coming year will be R. Weicker, president; Mrs. C. L. Tilley, secretary; Mrs. G. Hutchison, treasurer; Mrs. R. Chamberlain and Mrs. F. Yanliu, membership committee; Mrs. J. Madding, publicity chairman, and Mrs. J. Seaton, historian.

Other members of the PTA council present were Mrs. E. Stubbington and Mrs. T. Doherty, Diamond; A. Phillips and W. B. Lloyd, Chemainus; W. C. Jones and H. E. Edwards, Ladysmith.

A report on the annual carnival held during the summer showed net receipts of $87.30. Mrs. C. Southin and Mrs. M. Kotilla, in reporting for the children's section of the fall fair, brought in recommendations for future years.

The stopping of the bookmobile service of the Vancouver Island Regional Library to the schools and private individuals was discussed at length, and as the reports of the school board and the printed statement handed to those who avail themselves of the service did not coincide, members of the school board present offered to look into the matter with the idea of making a clarification before any further discussion took place.

Water Line Clearing Starts at Brentwood

BRENTWOOD — Bulldozers today started to work ploughing a right-of-way through Hagan Road and a tree-jammed gully toward Wallace Drive in the initial steps toward construction of the Brentwood water system extension.

Officials of Brentwood Waterworks District announced that the contract for the extension to Sea Drive had been awarded to J. E. Chilcott, of Royal Oak.

Trenchers will follow the bulldozers when the right-of-way is cleared. It is expected that Sea Drive residents will be served with adequate water pressure by the end of October.

The required four-inch steel pipe has been delivered and is on location. The additional pressure required will be supplied by a second 100,000-gallon tank being erected on Maber Ridge.

Total cost of the project will be $30,000. Laying of the pipe will cost about $10,000.

They came from Britain via Cape Horn, Hawaiian Islands, and Victoria, where they transhipped to the old "Discovery." Plans now include laying of a concrete approach to the spot, installation of park benches, and thorough grooming of the

Enrollment in Sooke Schools Shows 11 Per Cent Increase

LANGFORD—Enrollment in Sooke School District 62 has made an 11 per cent increase from 1,382 in September last year to 1,534 at present. Figures for the district, which includes 12 public and high schools between Belmont and Port Renfrew, were released on Monday.

Belmont High School has the largest enrollment, with 346 students, and Harris Creek and Leechtown vie for last place with 10 pupils each. There are 57 teachers in the district this year, as compared to 53 a year ago.

District school board has been granted permission by the department of education to proceed with preliminary drawings for an addition to Happy Valley School.

BUILD IN SPRING
Wade, Stockhill & Armour will be asked to prepare the sketches, and it is hoped to start construction in the spring.

Tenders will be invited for the sale of the old one-room Sooke Elementary School. The transaction will involve moving the building and seeding the site to grass.

The board has accepted an offer from Belmont Student Council to assemble for 75 cents each the lockers supplied for the two high schools. Work will be done by student volunteers under maintenance department direction, and the money will be contributed to the council treasury.

Kilted Soldier Cadets Forming Band

Capt. Dudley G. Stephens, commander of smart cadet corps of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), congratulates newly-appointed NCOs of brass band formed within the corps at a parade in Bay Street Armoury. Next to commander is Lieut. Gordon King.

bandmaster, who is also instrumental instructor for Oak Bay schools. Cadets, from left, are Cpl. B. R. Roberts, L-Cpl. R. Turner and Sgt. R. G. McDonald. In rear, with tuba, is Cadet J. E. Lewis. Recruits for both band and corps are needed. (Times photo.)

WITH THE FORCES

Two Bands Planned for Cadets

Musical units are in the making for the colorful, kilted cadet corps of the Victoria Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's).

Lieut. Gordon King is the officer in charge of molding the brass band for the unit. He reports that about 12 cadets are now enrolled in the band and that about 20 more are required to form the musical unit.

In the meantime, veteran pipe-major Ian Duncan has promised Capt. Dudley Stephens, cadet commander, that he will shortly produce a pipe band group for the small-fry Scotties.

Lieut. King said he wants recruits for the band who have a knowledge of instruments. It would help if those responding could bring their own instruments "to start with."

"The band we are forming is not for concert purposes. Its primary purpose will be to provide tunes for marching and ceremonial occasions," Lieut. King said. Cadets parade at Bay Street Armoury every Friday, between 7.30 and 10 p.m. Capt. Stevens can also be contacted at the Armoury every Monday and Thursday nights, which are Scottish Regiment parade nights. Parents interested in enrolling their sons should contact him. Cadets are generally aged from 14 to 18 years.

Although the cadet corps is starting its new season with the biggest enrollment in its history, Capt. Stephens reports "we can handle as many who want to join us."

Museum Head Shows Movies Of Bird Life

Illustrated lecture of ornithological work in Queen Charlotte Islands was given Victoria Kiwanis in Empress Hotel Tuesday by Dr. Clifford Carl, director of B.C. provincial museum.

A movie titled "Birding in Haida Land" showed habits of many native birds, some of which had never been studied in their breeding grounds until the arrival of the expedition headed by Dr. Carl.

Principal islands involved were Graham, Langara and tiny Cox Island off Langara. Here, sea birds and the predators were found in abundance and Dr. Carl's expedition was able to gather extensive data.

Because of the large number of sea birds, predators such as osprey and duck hawks were found in craggy places and in dead trees, all over the islands.

The duck hawk was especially interesting because of its ability to overtake its prey in mid-flight, killing almost instantly with its talons.

Newfoundland Minister Resigns Health Post

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Many Beautiful Plants Love That Shady Spot

Even a new garden will have a shady spot though it may be the shade of the house on the north side. Frequently it is a "problem spot" calling for ingenuity.

There are few cultivated plants which tolerate dense shade, but that provided by distant trees or shrubs, or by a low building, is ideal for many perennials. In such situations the sun usually shines for some part of each day during the growing season.

The Hellebores are favorites for these places, and bloom through the winter from October to April. Lily of the valley will also thrive there, as will the Astilbe, often called the herbaceous Spirea.

For early summer color use Platycodon, the blue balloon flower; Dicentra spectabilis, the bleeding heart; Aquilegia (the well-known columbine), in many colors, and pansies.

From midsummer on, Thalictrum, or meadow rue, will add an airy charm with its tall spires of tiny mauve jewels. It combines well with rosy pink Lythrum which blooms for two months or more, and with Hemerocallis flava, the sunny yellow daylilies.

Anemone japonica, the Japanese anemone, in white and pink, will continue color into fall, accompanied by blue Tradescantia (spiderwort) which flowers for months, usually until severe weather.

All these perennials are easy to grow, requiring no special care other than a fertile garden soil, and adequate moisture during the summer. Good drainage is, of course, a necessity for a shaded area producing flowering plants.

Planned to Kill Yoshida, Says Youth

TOKYO (UP)—A Japanese youth arrested near the official residence of Premier Shigeru Yoshida said today he planned to kill the prime minister with a seven-inch dagger unless he called off his overseas trip this month.

Police identified the would-be assassin as Yoshiyuki Maruyama, 22, an unemployed worker from Kobe. Maruyama's action appeared to police to be the latest in a series of "crackpot" attempts to get Yoshida to step out of the political picture. It was the second time this year where a Japanese confessed plans to kill the premier.

TV MAT FANS BEWARE; INHIBITIONS DANGEROUS

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—There's nothing like showing enthusiasm when your favorite manly TV wrestler is attacked by a wicked beast.

An Oklahoma City woman held the family's pet cat in her lap as she watched her wrestling hero suffer through a battering round. When the excitement ended the cat was dead.

She had choked it to death.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The week-end in review, or here we go again in the muddle that is the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

There shouldn't be room for protests such as issued by the Victoria Shamrocks following Monday night's loss to Peterborough Trailermen. Morally the Irish may have been right, but constitutionally they weren't, or so it seems.

Certainly a player who doesn't play shouldn't have a replacement, but it seems that issue could have been ironed out before the playoffs began.

Perhaps the answer would be to allow both finalists three pick-ups and leave it at that.

Still it wasn't McNulty, alone who beat the Irish. And even from this distance it seems that the Rocks must pull up their socks. The Petes are champions, play like it, and must be beaten on the floor, dirt or otherwise.

Walker

Monday night we sat in with Ted Reynolds of radio station CJVI on his telegraphic report from the east. And very complete it was. Ted gets a running report of the game direct from the box at Miller Bowl. And it was quite evident from a study of the dispatches that the Petes were in control of this particular contest with Moon Wooton as the key figure for the Trailermen.

Then there was a visit to a local theatre to see heavy-weight Rocky Marciano fist Mr. Ezzard Charles into submission. The Brockton blockbuster was packing all the guns. It was just a question when he was going to find a vulnerable spot. The Rock showed no respect whatsoever for Charles' punches and is pleasing enough in that he lives by the old book and throws leather with almost complete disregard for his own appearance and regardless of the consequences. He fears not. That is obvious.

Saturday, the occasion to visit Empire Stadium again presented itself. There, it will be recalled the British Columbia Lions won their first football game of the season. It was a brutal contest in that the Lions were playing, as they must if they are to win, with a determination that was admirable. The Lions are definitely short in what is needed to become a contender this year. But they are entertaining in that they refuse to believe in their own shortcomings. It's a good show that Annis Stukus has lined up on the mainland, and Vancouver sport fans are to be congratulated on the splendid support they are giving the club. The club, in return, is giving of what it has. And pity the club that takes the Lions too lightly, if their playoff livelihood depends on victory.

Through the mails arrived a publication entitled "world sports." One particular article struck home. It was to the effect that Old Country soccer fans may find their soccer will benefit from television. Not local television as applied to Old Country games, but the video truth of the tremendous strides that have been taken in soccer by European countries. The obvious net result is that the Old Country soccer fan will no longer be satisfied with England's secondary rank in world rating, and will demand that the clubs keep up with the trend. There is also the suggestion, and it should be well taken, that football pools be governed with an eye to turning profits over to the development of the game.

GRIFFITH SAYING LITTLE

Dressen Could Replace Harris

WASHINGTON (UP)—To say that Charlie Dressen will succeed Bucky Harris as manager of the Washington Senators at the end of this season "may be a little premature," owner Clark Griffith of the Senators said today.

The white-haired, 84-year-old club president admitted, however, that he will go to New York next Tuesday and "plans on seeing some people about this thing."

Dressen, who piloted the Brooklyn Dodgers to pennants in 1932 and 1933 but managed Oakland of the Pacific Coast League this year, said in Los Angeles Tuesday that he plans on leaving for New York today. Dressen indicated he's headed for a conference with a new major league boss.

Griffith insisted he simply hasn't made up his mind on his manager for next season because "the end of the season is the time for decision."

"I have always made it a

CELTIC BEATEN
GLASGOW (CP)—Partick Thistle Tuesday qualified for the Glasgow Cup soccer final by defeating Celtic 5-1 in the second replay of their semi-final. The division "A" Scottish League club meets Glasgow Rangers in the final September 27.

COMPARING THE SERIES RIVALS—THE INFIELD

Giants Smoother, Tribe Tougher

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants, with a solid defensive performer at each position, will take a smoother and healthier infield than Cleveland into the 51st world series next week.

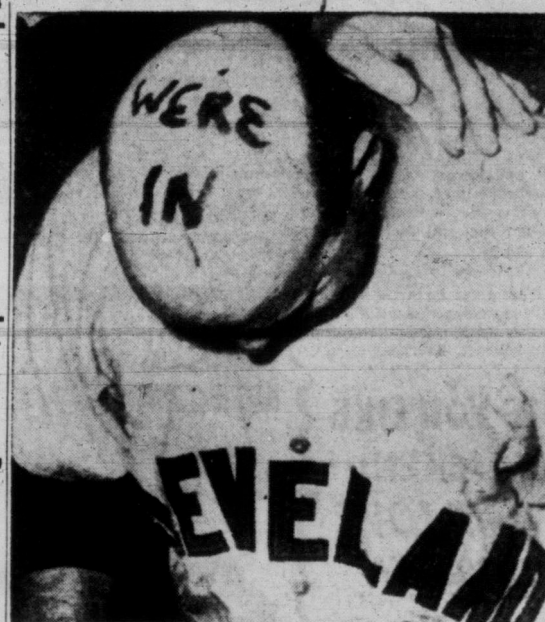

With Whitely Lockman, Davey Williams, Alvin Dark and Hank Thompson, the newly crowned National League champions take the edge over the Indians' quarter of Vic Wertz, Bobby Avila, George Strickland and Al Rosen. Only at shortstop, where Strickland is considered a shade the better fielder than Dark, does Cleveland shine.

That's defensively. At the bat, the Giants cannot match the power of Wertz and Rosen or the consistency of Avila, the American League's leading batter.

Whether Rosen physically will be at his peak is questionable. The latest report had Al's fractured finger of mid-June thoroughly healed, but now he's suffering from multiple ill—a charley horse in his right thigh, calcium deposits in his left foot and muscle spasms in his back. He'll be ready for the opener in the Polo Grounds next Wednesday. But how ready?

Strickland, too, may pose a problem. Only two weeks recovered from a broken jaw, George has batted .095 since his return to the lineup. At first base there's little to

Bare Facts

It was Cleveland Indians who did the scalping in the American League this year. Vic Wertz, Cleveland first baseman, wears the war-paint of victory as someone painted on his pate the obvious "we're in" as the tribe clinched the AL pennant. (NEA.)

Nuxhall at Home In Majors Now

Franklin Roosevelt was president and Leo Durocher was managing Brooklyn when a 15-year-old high school boy from Hamilton, Ohio, took the mound for the Cincinnati Reds one grey afternoon in June, 1944.

The youngster missed the catcher completely with eight of his first nine pitches and finally staggered through one inning with five runs scored against him on five walks and two hits.

Ten years later Joe Nuxhall has made the grade in the big time after a long stay in the minors. The lefthander, who was the youngest player ever to wear a major league uniform and probably the wildest, has conquered his control problems and has a tidy 124-44 record for the fourth-place Reds.

His 12th victory came Tuesday and was the best of the dozen. He gave the Milwaukee Braves only six hits, struck out six and walked two in winning his third straight complete game and his first shutout, 5-0.

In the past two seasons with the Reds he won 10 and lost 15.

YANKS SET RECORD
In the American League Tuesday the New York Yankees set a record and the pennant-winning Cleveland Indians didn't. The Yanks beat Washington 3-1 for their 101st victory, the most games ever won by a runner-up in the junior circuit. The Indians, needing only one game to tie the all-time mark of 110 victories in the league, lost to Chicago 9-7.

Bob Grim, a 24-year-old bartender from Brooklyn, became the first Yankee rookie in 34 seasons to win 20 games. He gave up only four hits, all singles, in running his record to 20-6.

In other action the New York Giants continued their winning ways with a 5-2 triumph at Brooklyn. Chicago took a double header from the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3 in 10 innings and 3-2 in 6.

Stan Hack To Be Rehired
CHICAGO (AP)—Stan Hack will be given a new contract to manage Chicago Cubs in 1955 after the world series, club owner P. K. Wrigley said Tuesday.

Hack, who finished his playing career with the Cubs in 1948 and then spent five years in the club's farm system as manager at Des Moines, Springfield, Mass., and Los Angeles, succeeded Phil Cavarretta as skipper of the Bruins last March.

Carter on Spot
SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Jimmy Carter, the off-again-on-again former lightweight champion, takes on a substitute opponent tonight in a nationally televised bout that offers Carter little to gain and lots of reputation to lose.

Carter, originally scheduled to meet lightweight king Paddy Demarco in a 15-round title match, goes instead against Freddie (Babe) Herman in a 10-round scheduled when the title fight was called off for the second time.

Avila, with a .336 batting mark to Williams' .225, is the better hitter by far. Davey's strength lies in his ground-covering and pivot-making abilities.

Dark, with 186 hits and .295 batting average, presents a hit-and-run threat in the No. 2 spot in New York's hitting order. Strickland is hitting .215 for the year.

Weather Clear For Fourth Series Game

By DENNY BOYD

PETERBOROUGH, Ont.—Tempers were back on an even keel today and the weather clear and cool as Victoria Shamrocks and Peterborough Trailermen prepared for the fourth game of their Mann Cup lacrosse championship at Miller Bowl tonight.

Following Tuesday's hectic meeting at which the Shamrock protest of the Trailermen's use of Jim McNulty as a replacement for Ike Hildebrand was thrown out by the executive of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, the Rocks set about devising a plan of stopping the Petes in their march to a fourth Canadian championship.

Now trailing two games to one in the best-of-seven series, the Irish are still confident they can return to the form that marked their first-game triumph over the Petes and get back on even terms. No change in the club line-up has been announced by coach Red McMillan.

Meanwhile the CLA announced a new slate of officers with the key posts going to western representatives.

Dr. Frank Kenny of New Westminster is the new president of the CLA, succeeding Jim McLeod of Owen Sound.

GORDON SECRETARY
Tommy Gordon, Intercity Lacrosse League secretary, was named secretary-treasurer, replacing Gene Dopp, who announced his retirement following 40 years in the game as playing coach and official. Dopp has been secretary to the CLA for the past six years.

A. E. Brown of St. Catharines was elected first vice-president with Les Gilmour of Stewiack, B.C., second vice-president, and Wally Cattel of Dundas, Ont., third vice-president.

Dopp was named honorary secretary-treasurer with Frank J. Burd of Vancouver, honorary president.

Weather conditions this morning appeared favorable for tonight's fourth game at Miller Bowl.

(Radio station CJVI will carry a telegraphic report on the game, starting at 5:30 P.M.)

Dot Herbertson Takes Honors At Alberni

Youthful Victoria diver Dorothy Herbertson, Sunday, added another star to a fast-growing list of golf triumphs by capturing the second annual Port Alberni Golf Club women's open tournament.

Miss Herbertson toured the 18-hole course with an 81 to take the Woodward Trophy. Clubmate Shirley Fry was runner-up with an 80.

Mrs. T. A. P. Jackson of Nanaimo had low gross on the first nine, while Miss Fry posted low gross on the second nine. Mrs. Peggy Zoost of Nanaimo had low net.

Perez Victor
HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Lulu Perez, fifth-ranked featherweight, moved into the lightweight class successfully here Tuesday night when he came from behind in the closing rounds to gain a unanimous 10-round decision over Jerry Drouin of Montreal.

Tri-City Joins Move To Oust Esks, Caps
KENNEWICK, Wash. (AP)—The owners of the Tri-City Braves, of the Western International Baseball League, have decided to push at a meeting in Seattle Sunday for dropping Vancouver and Edmonton from the league next year.

Harold Matheson, president of the board of the Tri-City Athletic Club, owners of the Braves, said the distance factor was the primary consideration in the Braves' decision to ask for the elimination of the Eskimos.

Lewiston has also signified its intention of asking for the withdrawal of Vancouver and Edmonton.

In Vancouver's case, he said it was his feeling that the Caplans would drop out of their own volition. He gave no reasons but there have been indications the Braves feel Vancouver wants to be a member of the Pacific Coast League or nothing.

Matheson also said he will plug for the following things at the Seattle meeting:

1. Continuance of the WIL as a Class A loop.
2. A 60-40 gate receipt split instead of the present method whereby the home team takes all.
3. A 16-player limit for each team with no more than eight veterans to a squad.

Matheson said the association decided to field a team if at all possible next year, depending on action taken by the league.

The Braves, Matheson said, were near the financial break-even point as of September 15, adding the Tri-City team drew 57,000 fans during its home games this season despite the fact the squad finished up in last place in the seven-team loop.

Traffic Jam at Geordy's Corner

Action was hot and heavy around Geordy Johnston's Shamrock citadel as the Peterborough Trailermen took a 2-1 lead in games in the Mann Cup lacrosse final at Peterborough Monday night. It took a flying jump by Jack Bionda

(12) and a flying tackle by Nip O'Hearn (17) to stop Trailermen's Jerry Fitzgerald (11) on this play. Johnston was equal to the task, however, clearing Fitzgerald's drive. Petes won the game, 9-4. (Photo by Grant.)

INDIANS EARLY CHOICE

NEW YORK (AP)—First betting price on the world series finds Cleveland Indians, 8½-5 favorites, man to man, over New York Giants.

The price quoted is 89, meaning a fan wanting to back the Giants would get only 85¢ while a Cleveland supporter would have to give 95¢, leaving a one-point spread.

Stampedeers To Strip Veteran Club

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampedeers started pre-season drills Tuesday for the Western Hockey League campaign.

Coach Frank Currie announced the defending champion Stampedeers will drill twice daily for a week.

Eleven holdovers and five newcomers reported to coach Currie Monday. Those from the 1953-54 club included: Goalkeepers Bill Brennan and Stu Hendry; defenseman Gus Kyle, Pat Coburn and Art Michaluk; forwards Pat Lundy, Archie Scott, Ray Barry, Walt Trentini, Frank Ashworth and Johnny Michaluk.

Newcomers included Wimpy Stephenson, a defenseman in the Big Six League last year; Sherman Blair, former Buffalo Hockey Association player who starred in the Scottish League last year; Ken McTeer, up from Buffalo juniors, and Freddie Hucul, who played briefly with Stampedeers at the start of last season, was recalled by the parent Chicago Black Hawks and eventually wound up with Quebec Aces, the Calgary club's opponents in the Edinburgh Trophy series.

Jim McFadden, hustling winger who played a major role in Stampedeers' triumph last year, has asked to be excused from the early part of training camp so that he can get his crop off. McFadden farms in Manitoba.

IN RESERVE WINS

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—Alberta Ranches' In Reserve won an easy, three-length victory in the featured Longridge purse at Tanforan race track here Tuesday.

Favored Players Score in Club Golf

Favorites advanced easily Tuesday in the annual Victoria Golf Club women's championship.

Defending champion Mrs. H. G. Means moved into the semifinals with a 4 and 3 decision over Mrs. S. Haynes, while medalist Mrs. G. E. Harris gained a semis berth with a 4 and 3 victory over Mrs. C. McRae.

Others to reach the semis were Mrs. H. Husband, who eliminated Mrs. S. Maddocks, 6 and 4, and Mrs. S. Weston, who ousted Mrs. A. Pedgeon, 4 and 3.

Semi-final action, scheduled for Thursday, will pit Mrs.

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UP)—Baseball faced a revolt in its own ranks today as a group of independent minor league executives prepared to sue Commissioner Ford Frick and the major leagues for $50,000,000.

Frank Lawrence, white-haired president of the Portsmouth club of the Piedmont League, said Tuesday the club owners would file the suit in a federal court later this week.

It will be based on damages minor league franchises allegedly have suffered from invasion of their so-called territorial rights through major league radio and television broadcasts.

"We're prepared to fight it to the bitter end," Lawrence said. "The damage that the majors have done to independent minor league club owners is incalculable."

In New York, Frick said he did not want to comment "until I find out what it is all about."

Lawrence is on a committee of nine men from the majors and minors named by Frick to revise the entire structure of baseball law and to change the draft rules whereby players are moved up in classification.

Poole Holds Point Lead In Grid Race

TORONTO (CP)—Ray Poole, placement-kicking specialist with Montreal Alouettes, has depended on his accurate kicking to boost him into the Big Four scoring leadership.

The veteran import from New York Giants kicked two field goals—as Al's lost 7-6 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday to give him a 25-point total made up of four field goals, one single and 12 converts. He is one up on Toronto's Norm Hecker, first-year import from Los Angeles Rams who climbed two notches with a 13-point day as Argonauts walloped Ottawa Rough Riders 34-6.

Scoring leaders follow:

City To Host Firefighters

Youthful Victoria City will go in search of their second straight Coast Soccer League victory Saturday afternoon when they host Vancouver Firefighters at Royal Athletic Park.

The club has been working out this week with stress being placed on defense, a fundamental the club was weak on last Saturday when they edged St. Andrews, 5-4.

Final workout this week will be held Thursday night, following which a starting line-up will be named.

Little change is expected in the City squad.

A newcomer to the city, Ron Clydale, originally from Scotland, has been working out with City and showing well. He is a right winger.

WON OPENER

Firefighters, currently in a three-way tie with Victoria City and Vancouver City for the league leadership, will arrive highly touted after knocking over New Westminster Royals, 3-1, in the league opener last week.

Ken Pears will be in goal for Firefighters, while Alec McKay and Dick Kenning will provide protection from the full-back positions.

The half line will consist of Pete Proctor, Dave Sullivan and Ernie Durante, while Art Hughes will pivot Dave Morton and Gordon McLeod on the right and Dave Hutton and Doug Greig on the left to form the attacking unit.

Greig gave a polished display against Royals and scored two of the team's three markers.

Exclusive Company

CHICAGO (AP) — Outfielder Hank Sauer Tuesday joined exclusive company among home run hitters in Chicago Cubs' history when he poked his No. 40 round-tripper.

The only other Cub to ever hit more homers was Hack Wilson, who poked 56 for a National League record in 1930.

Lowest qualifying score was 157.

Young Shows Interest, Could Yet Join Cougars

Victoria Cougars, still short on personnel, received a ray of hope Tuesday that one answer may be found to their pre-season problem.

Left winger Moe Young, who has been sought by the club, advised general manager Fred Hutchinson from his home in Trail that he may contact the team later this week at Kamloops.

Although Hutchinson couldn't say definitely that Young would report, Young himself indicated that he was seriously considering the proposal.

In a telephone conversation with Hutchinson, he said, "I haven't been able to make up my mind what to do, but I may contact you again at Kamloops."

Hutchinson leaves tonight for Kamloops and the Cougars' training site.

Meanwhile coach Billy Reay has been experimenting with several sets of line combinations and appears to have settled on one unit for the time being.

"Colin Kilburn, Doug Macauley, and Doug Anderson have been working well together," he stated this morning. "Macauley in particular has looked good."

Others to catch Reay's eye after only two days of practice are goalie Marcel Pelletier and defenseman Mike Keating.

Andy Heberton, who missed the first drills because of an attack of influenza, has recovered and was scheduled to work out with the club today.

Cougars meet Kelowna Packers in their first pre-season exhibition contest at Kelowna Friday night. They play Kamloops Elks, at Kamloops, Saturday, then return home for Tuesday's exhibition game against New York Rangers at Memorial Arena.

Nothing further has been heard from defenseman Pete

Durham, who Monday indicated he would not report to the club. Durham was acquired from the Royals this summer in a trade for winger Sam Bettlo who since has been traded for Sam Lavitt, defenseman of last year's Cougars.

One in Ten Cig Smokers To Get Cancer

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)

One of every 10 male cigarette smokers will have lung cancer by 1970, according to Dr. Alton Ochsner, the New Orleans surgeon who started the nation's lung cancer scare several months ago.

Ochsner, who came here to address a medical meeting, said Tuesday he was "literally frightened about what is going to happen in a few more years" because of the jump in lung cancer.

"If you've switched to a filter cigarette to avoid cancer of the lung, you've fooled yourself," Ochsner said. "The only thing filters do is sell more cigarettes. They don't remove anything."

BIG INCREASE

The doctor said that in 1920 only 11 per cent of all cancer among men was of the lung. In 1930, this increased to 2.2 per cent. In 1948, it had risen to 8.3 per cent.

By 1970, he estimated, it will be 18 per cent.

Like other cancer authorities, Ochsner believes lung cancer is more prevalent among men than women because men have been smoking longer.

He said the cancer agent in cigarettes "definitely is in the tar, not in the nicotine." But he added nicotine causes heart trouble.

"That's one reason why there aren't more cases of lung cancer," he said. "They die of heart trouble before lung cancer develops."

Plague Outbreak Reported in Peru

QUITO, Ecuador (UP)—The government said today it has sealed the border between Ecuador and Peru because of a reported outbreak of bubonic plague in a Peruvian coastal town.

A health ministry spokesman said the plague outbreak occurred in Tumbes, about 25 miles southwest of the border.

WINS NOMINATION

After a heated convention battle with Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., Averell Harriman, above, early today won the Democratic nomination for governor of the state of New York. Harriman, 62, is former U.S. ambassador to Moscow. Harriman will be opposed in the Nov. 2 election by Sen. Irving M. Ives, Republican standard bearer.

Bobo Lived for Five Years By Pawning $30,000 Ring

NEW YORK (UP)—Blonde Bobo Rockefeller, whose current assets include a recently acquired $5,500,000 divorce settlement, revealed in a felony court Tuesday she lived for five years by pawning a $30,000 engagement ring.

Describing the 8 1/2-carat emerald-cut diamond and platinum ring as "the only valuable piece of jewelry I have," the former Cinderella bride told the court: "I've lived on that ring for the past five years. I just got it out of the Provident Loan Co."

Bobo lost the ring Monday while moving out of former husband Winthrop Rockefeller's fashionable Park Avenue apartment, where she lived while pressing her suit for divorce. Police found the ring in a packing case and charged a moving man with attempting to steal it.

UN Rejects Red China Bid for Assembly Seat

Vote Is 43-11 Against Admitting Reds To Organization; Van Kleffens President

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Ninth United Nations General Assembly as its first business Tuesday over-rode Soviet demands and shelved for 1954 any action on the tension-ridden question of seating Red China.

The vote was 43 to 11. It was the third straight year the assembly had taken such action.

Tuesday's vote was virtually the same as that last year, when a similar proposal was approved 44 to 10. Denmark switched from the affirmative to the negative to account for the single additional vote cast against the proposal. Canada voted with the majority.

U.K., FRANCE JOIN

Britain and France joined the United States in urging postponement of action, even though Britain has recognized the Red Chinese government. A British spokesman told the assembly this is not the time to consider the question.

The roll call was on a proposal by Henry Cabot Lodge, chief of the American delegation.

The members voting against the Lodge resolution were Burma, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, India, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Soviet Ukraine, Soviet Union and Yugoslavia. Abstaining were Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen.

NEW PRESIDENT

After this decision the assembly elected Eelco N. Van Kleffens, former foreign minister of the Netherlands, as president for this year. He received 45 votes. Prince Wan Waihayakon, foreign minister of Thailand, had withdrawn from the contest but got three votes. Twelve countries abstained.

The assembly will complete its organization today with the election of seven vice-presidents and seven committee chairmen, who will serve as its steering body.

Attorney-General Bows Out of Sask. Politics

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (BUP)—Saskatchewan Attorney-General Jack Corman, CCF MLA for Moose Jaw for the past 10 years, bowed out of the provincial political picture today because of poor health.

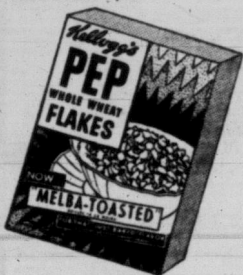

Corman told the provincial CCF constituency committee in a letter Monday that he was not well enough to plan for meetings or conferences, and consequently would not run again.

WEST GERMAN UNIONIST WARNS NAZIS RISING

BONN (Reuters)—A prominent West German trade union leader said here Tuesday that Nazi infiltration into public offices in West Germany had grown as serious as on the eve of Hitler's seizure of power in 1933.

Adolf Kummernuss, chairman of the public services and transport union, one of Germany's largest, said Nazis have infiltrated everywhere in administration and industry.

If the present tolerance of former Nazis continues, he said, "we shall one day find ourselves exactly where we were in 1933."

Cowboys participating in the Vic Van-Isle Kinsmen three-day rodeo, starting Sept. 30, may someday be honored in a United States national hall of fame. A movement is underway to set up such a monument, sponsored by C. A. Reynolds of Kansas City. He has been enlisting the support of governors and senators from 17 western states, including Oregon and Washington.

"In paying homage to the brave and skillful men who perform their dangerous rodeo jobs, the Rodeo Hall of Fame will acknowledge in a permanent memorial the courage and resourcefulness of the men who built the great west," he said.

Blood Stream Used to Combat Rheumatic, Arthritic Pain; No Pills

Penetrant Dilates Capillaries, Flows Fresh Oxygen-Rich Blood Through Afflicted Areas

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. This new method applies, for the first time, a well-known medical principle of pain relief to a product now readily available to Canadians for home use. The discovery literally calls upon the blood stream to bathe away pains of rheumatism, arthritis, sore muscles and joints of most kinds.

Sold under the brand name "InfraRUB," this new cream is odorless and greaseless. InfraRUB has the unusual ability to penetrate the "skin barrier"—go to work to relieve pain deep down in sore muscles and joints. The bloodstream carries the soothing medication right to the seat of trouble where it actually helps drive away pain-causing congestion and pressure. Users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.

Another feature of this new product that appeals to many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a moment's light massage.

InfraRUB leaves no oily film or pungent objectionable odour on the skin. Users find they are able to put on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

InfraRUB is now sold at all drug counters. No prescription is necessary.

Traffic Information Obscure, Group Told

Don Smith was elected chairman of the civic affairs group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting held in the Pacific Club, Tuesday.

He succeeds Col. M. A. Kent, chosen vice-chairman was Ernie Peden.

A report was read from A. deB. McPhillips, chairman of a special traffic sub-committee, in which he said traffic facts were difficult to find and that there seemed to be little liaison between city police and city hall on traffic matters.

Colonel Kent said there was a "voluminous" report on city traffic problems, plus recommendations, available in the city hall. It was compiled in 1947 by experts for use by the Town Planning Commission, but no action had been taken. The report, he said, contained "the solution" for proper control at the Hillside and Douglas fountain roundabout. The Regional Planning Board would have services available for municipalities with a traffic problem, H. R. Stephen reported. He said the situation was sufficiently complex that it was "almost hopeless for a person with limited experience and limited time to dig into the prodigious problem."

In his remarks on taking office, Mr. Smith said the civic affairs group should be the most active in the chamber.

Among items he would like to see finalized this year is the contentious amalgamation question among area municipalities.

WATCH GERMANS WARNS FREEDMAN

TORONTO (BUP)—Reporter Max Freedman warned Tuesday night a resurgent Germany will solve its own problems by forming a new Reich unless the West acts with wisdom and justice on present overtures from Bonn.

Freedman, Washington correspondent for the Manchester Guardian, told the Ontario Public School Trustees Association that the Germany of today "is the equal," he said, "of any two states in Western Europe with the exception of Great Britain."

He said, "If we reject the German overtures, we will one day face a resurgent Germany which will carve out our destiny, and we will be lucky if it does not write the epitaph of many of our hopes and dreams."

THEY KNOW NOTHING BETTER

Polish Navy Man Doubts USSR Revolution Coming

There was little chance of a break up of the USSR, would there "because the people have no history of anything better to recall," Capt. Eugene Plawski, chief of the Polish naval staff in the last war told the United Services Institute here Tuesday.

Only a third world war could win freedom for Poland. Conditions there were now so bad even Polish leaders in London were advising against any attempt to operate underground. The former naval chief, now a government interpreter here, said "we have had enough. The situation is hopeless. We lost 260,000 in the Warsaw uprising—more than the U.S. lost in the whole war. We don't want any more of that."

During the war, Polish naval craft escorted more than 600

convoys, sank at least eight submarines, took part in Dunkerque evacuation and the Dieppe landings with the Canadians, and landings at North Africa, Sicily, Italy and Normandy, he said.

Captain Plawski has been in Canada six years. His commands during the last war included submarines, corvettes, frigates and cruisers.

VANCOUVER (CP).—Motor mechanics at four Lower Mainland trucking firms have been granted wage increases ranging from 10 to 13 cents an hour. The boost brings the hourly rate to $1.95 in three firms and $1.98 in the fourth. About 40 fleet shop men are affected by the agreement.

FISHERMAN STILL LOW

TOKIO (AP).—Atsichi Kuboyama, 39, fishing boat crew member who was dusted with atomic ash last March 1 near Bikini, sank lower today as physicians battled desperately for his life. Kuboyama is the most seriously injured of the 23 Lucky Dragon sailors who were burned by radioactive ash from a United States hydrogen test explosion at the Pacific proving grounds.

British Designers Working On Atom-Powered Aircraft

LONDON (Reuters).—British aircraft designers today said research is under way here on a flying boat big enough to carry an atom plant.

LONDON (Reuters).—British aircraft designers today said research is under way here on a flying boat big enough to carry an atom power plant.

In a news letter, the Society of British Aircraft Constructors said the first atom-powered planes will probably have to be flying boats because of weight. Because of lead shields and other devices needed to protect the crew from radio-activity, tremendously long runways would be required for land-based craft.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Miss Josephine Lowman, the eminent advice-giver who dwells on the Woman's Page of this publication, recently had some advice to give about worrying.

Miss Lowman said the thing to do with worrying is, put it on a businesslike basis. "Set aside a certain time each day in which to worry," she says. "Take five or ten or fifteen minutes every day and worry just as hard as you can. Don't loaf on the job. Worry constantly and strenuously during the time you have allotted it. But afterwards, do not worry until the set time the next day."

Miss Lowman feels this plan will make you so bored with worrying, you will give it up as a bad job and get on with whatever you should be doing instead of worrying about it.

As usual, I am heartily in accord with this excellent advice from Miss Lowman.

For the ordinary, run-of-mine human being, the plan should work fine.

But I don't think it would be of much use to a really skilled worrier.

I don't mean the ordinary worrier, who is content to worry about what to do until the doctor comes, what to do when the H-bomb comes, what to wear to a funeral, what time it is, and if it is going to rain next Sunday.

These ordinary worriers quite likely could cram their worrying into a ten or fifteen-minute period and have time left over to read the comics.

But for the really skilled worrier, much more time would be required.

I mean the type of worrier who, if all else fails, will worry about having nothing to worry about.

I know one worrier, just for example, who is quite capable of worrying because a piece of string might not be long enough to wrap up a parcel of oranges to mail to a friend in Seattle. . . . If she had a parcel and some oranges and a friend in Seattle and a piece of string.

Getting back to Miss Lowman, I am afraid her advice just don't do for worriers accustomed to devoting full time to the job.

Poor Miss Lowman! She's always having trouble with her advice. I'm worried about her.

Square fingers. The intelligent reader (me) can instantly see the threat this droodle poses for our civilization. Men with "square fingers" indeed! These "men" are creatures wearing gloves with square fingers to disguise the fact that instead of fingers they have devilish, other-worldly tentacles. They come from a far-off planet called Glurp V and are here spying and making plans to capture us. Their women are all fiendishly beautiful and incurably romantic and the Glurpians plan to conquer us by sending millions of these gorgeous women here to infiltrate our society and paralyze our economy. ### GIMMICKS SCORED

Give-Away Car Deals Under Fire

Persistent use of pressure and "come-on gimmicks" is causing the public to lose faith with the automotive dealers in Canada, a prominent Toronto man told a convention of the Federation of Automotive Dealers' Association in Empress Hotel today.

James L. Cook, Hudson dealer in Toronto, accused dealers across Canada of spectacular and false advertising, price-cutting, and damaging give-aways.

"In this schmozzle, manufacturers, dealers and the public all are losing," he said.

He cited cases of purchasers of 1954 model cars who bought earlier in the year and then saw them advertised at much lower prices later on.

NOT LAUGHING

"This section of the motor purchasing public sure isn't sitting back laughing," he emphasized. He said that all over the nation auto dealers are "giving away" their products so that manufacturers can make a profit and the federal government can collect the taxes.

Even dealers with old-established products such as Buick and Oldsmobile are giving them away, he claimed.

"When we give away such popular products, just how crazy can we get?" the speaker asked.

Mr. Cooke explained that in Toronto the situation started off with cut prices, followed by massive advertising and give-aways such as milk stoles and other non-related products.

He said that one ad recently offered 200 cars at $1 over dealers' cost.

PRICE SETTING

He urged the federal government to allow auto manufacturers to set prices, pointing out that the government fixes prices on TCA tickets and fixes "the price" of income tax.

"It is time that auto manufacturers, dealers and unions took a look at the future," Mr. Cooke declared.

UBC Bursaries For 4 Islanders

Among 50 University of British Columbia students who shared $7,000 worth of scholarship awards announced this week are four Vancouver Island students.

Winner of the Captain LeRoy Memorial scholarship of $150 was Marian Eileen Rainer, 1144 Loeholm, Victoria.

Dorothy Colleen Reader, Port Alberni, won the University Women's Club of Vancouver bursary of $200. Phyllis Marie Wensink, Courtenay, won the Victoria Home Economics Association bursary of $50; Joyce Aspesi Mounce, Cumberland, took the Provincial Council of B.C., Canadian Daughters' League bursary worth $100.

THESE DAYS THE ONLY SAFE PLACE IS IN BED

Domestic accidents outweighed traffic injuries in Victoria in the last 24 hours.

Most seriously hurt was John Stanners, 3000 Admirals, who suffered serious spine injury when the hood of a truck fell on his neck while he was tinkering with the motor. He is in Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. E. Highnoon, 68, of Duncan, was also taken to Jubilee by police ambulance after she fell down an escalator at Hudson's Bay Company store. She suffered cuts and bruises.

A fall while gardening injured 72-year-old S. T. Hull, 1224 Fairfield. He was rushed to St. Joseph's with a scalp cut and shock. He fell into a rock garden. His condition is fair.

Struck by a car while crossing the middle of the 900 block, Bank Street, Tuesday afternoon, three-year-old Brenda Thomas, 951 Bank suffered leg bruises. She went to Jubilee. Driver, Miss Mabel F. Child, will be summonsed, police said.

A car-motorcycle crash early today sent Richard Stratford, 29 Bushy, to St. Joseph's, where he was treated for cuts to nose and forehead and bruises.

Police said Stratford passed a red light without pausing while driving north on Menzies. His motorbike was in collision with Edward Laughren's car. Laughren lives at 778 Hillside.

Two Men Fined For Killing Island Elk

Sooke Meat Cache Shown Game Warden

Robert Vansickle, Lantzville, and Albert Marriot, Victoria, each was fined $200 and costs in Nanaimo today after pleading guilty to a charge of shooting an elk out of season.

Frank Greenfield, Nanaimo district game warden, told the court approximately 350 pounds of elk meat were found in Vansickle's home. The game warden travelled to Victoria Tuesday to interview Marriot.

After questioning "he led me to a meat cache at Sooke," said the warden.

"For many, many years now the shooting of elk has been forbidden on the island, and I believe that you two men know that," said Magistrate Beevor-Potts. "Actually speaking you have no excuse at all."

(An open season on elk on Vancouver Island, the first in 40 years, is from October 9 to 13, inclusive).

Liquor Case Appealed After Accused Freed

The crown has launched an appeal in the case of Lee Fook, Victoria, who was convicted in city police court last month of selling liquor but was released from jail on a technicality.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane wrote of habeas corpus discharging the accused from a six-month prison term. The justice held that the penalty imposed by Magistrate A. I. Thomas was illegal.

The act provides that anyone found guilty of selling liquor shall be fined a minimum sum of $300 or a maximum of $1,000 or in default six months. Fook was not given the option of paying the fine.

City prosecutor Alan Bigelow pointed out that Fook today is a convicted man but is not serving a penalty. He will ask the court to impose a new sentence.

Electricians to Bargain For Gasmen, Court Rules

B.C. Electric has lost out in its 2½-year fight to prevent the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL-TLC) from becoming the bargaining agency for its 250 gas workers in Victoria and Vancouver.

The IBEW was successful in getting certification for the gas workers from the provincial government's Industrial Relations Board, July 23, but the BCE took immediate steps to appeal.

Today in Vancouver Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker handed down reasons for rejecting the company's appeal.

He said that since the labor board had granted certification on finding a majority of employees were members of the union, he had not the power to override the board's decision.

BCE fought the decision on the grounds that the IBEW's jurisdiction did not extend to cover workers in the gas industry.

Earlier this year, company officials refused to bargain with the IBEW for this reason and also because they contended the IBEW local leadership in Vancouver was "Communist tinged."

Accused Bigamist Remanded on Bad Cheque Count

A further remand was granted Hugh Campbell, Shawnigan Lake, today, after trial began on a charge of obtaining credit by false pretences.

Campbell, 22, allegedly presented a worthless $85 cheque to Wilson U-Drive Ltd. last February. Following his arrest here recently Duncan RCMP issued a warrant for him on a bigamy charge.

Police said that he will be taken there to face a charge that he married three times without separation from any of the women concerned. The latest "bride" was said to be 17.

Campbell's trial was delayed when a witness from a city bank was unable to testify that the cheque involved represented an account which did not exist.

The witness had not checked the records himself and the clerk who did now will likely be called as a witness.

The trial reopens before Magistrate H. C. Hall on Friday. Campbell will not leave to attend Duncan RCMP court until conclusion of the case here. It has been proceeding with repeated delays for more than two weeks. The accused is in custody.

Hockey Tour of B.C. Planned by Japanese

ASK THE TIMES

Q. The following question has caused a miniature controversy. At a recent wedding the bride, who is a member of the Presbyterian Church, chose her church for the ceremony. The groom and his parents attend Anglican church and they contend the ceremony should have been there. We always were of the opinion it was the bride's choice for the ceremony. She is perfectly willing to attend and become a member of his church after the ceremony. Will you please tell us if there is a recognized custom regarding this?

—C. W.

A. This column makes no claim to speak with authority on social customs, least of all marriage usages. However, it has been of the opinion that for an unknown number of years custom widely, if not universally recognized, has permitted the bride to choose the church in which the religious ceremony will be performed.

63 PAGES OVERFLOWING WITH CHRISTIAN CHARITY

Chest's Good Samaritan Dollars Went Far, Did Power of Good

By PETE LOUDON

Your dollars went a long, long way. On the eve of the 1954 Red Feather campaign, a report has been released by a fact-finding committee which was named last year to investigate works of 16 member agencies of Community Chest.

The 63-page report, compiled by 11 Victoria business and professional people, has been prepared as a guide to the 1954 campaign committee.

Chest officials believe the report shows, as nothing else, the importance of widespread generous response to the $203,000 drive which begins October 4.

Highlights of the book:

• In 1953 almost 19,000 visits, more than 50 a day, were made by Victorian Order of Nurses to 2,844 patients in this area.

• Placed in foster homes with all their expenses paid were 369 children.

• More than 100 blind persons were assisted and 2,424 physiotherapy treatments were given arthritides.

• The John Howard Society gave cash for a fresh start to 21 ex-prisoners.

• Countless boys and girls were offered healthful recreation and training at YMCA and YWCA centres.

• Low cost or free summer camp was provided for city families, pensioners, crippled children and the blind.

• Over 2,000 Boy Scouts were given a helping hand.

• Four Columbia Coast Mission ships had "smoother sailing" on their voyages to 225 B.C. outposts with medical aid and social service.

• Milk was given undernourished children and meals to transients by St. Vincent de Paul Society.

• Seventy-five Christmas hampers of food and clothing were distributed by the Christmas bureau.

• A reading and games room was kept in operation for about 80 elderly men.

• New hospital equipment was provided by the Senior Auxiliary to St. Joseph's.

These examples were taken at random.

The same work and much more will be undertaken this year and the Community Chest—which is financed by your dollars—will be called upon to pay.

Snap-On Tops for Frames
So Glasses Match Clothes

By PENNY SAVER

Let's start a new saying like "Boys love all the lasses who wear pretty glasses."

It's true that many people look better with glasses than without, and those who don't can certainly look just as nice with them, for there are glasses nowadays to match the shape of any face, in colors to blend with hair or skin-tone.

Gals who wear glasses all the time are getting so's they want a different pair to match every ensemble.

Hmmmm... that could run into a lot of money!

Most folks can't just go and buy a pair of glasses every time they buy a dress, for when you buy new frames, you have to get new lens, too, and that's the most expensive part.

Thing to do, then, is to buy the new glasses which have four different frame tops which snap on and off in a jiffy. The glasses are gold, best quality, and each pair of frame tops looks as though it is a permanent fixture. You just try them and I'll bet you'll love them.

As I said, there are four different colors in the set. You can have tops of brown, red, green, blue, grey... well, almost any color you want. And you can have them plain, striped, polka-dotted or mottled, depending upon whether you're dressing for the office or a party.

Price for the set is $29. Now figure it out before you say it's expensive. Those frames cost about the same as four different sets of frames, but with them you are saving on lens, for you only buy one set. You see? It's a terrific saving... and a terrific idea!

As I was walking past a hosiery counter yesterday, I spotted the queerest rig! It was a machine stretching and pulling one poor, sheer nylon. I don't know why I put that "poor" adjective in that last sentence, because to my amazement, the stocking was taking all that pulling without a run, a snag or a pucker.

It was being stretched to almost double the size of the thickness of a woman's leg and as for length, it was being pulled taut... very taut. There was a little gadget on the side of the machine which recorded the number of times the stocking was stretched. As I passed, the number was 9,075! I'm wondering how many more times the stocking was stretched.

At any rate, the test proved there is a brand of nylons that are sheer and hardy which is the combination most women want. I priced the stockings, finding that you can buy them at $1.50 or $1.75.

'H' LINE

TORONTO (CP)—They're trying to sell the "H-line" now under the label of relaxation.

At a department store fall fashion show Monday women found out they are not in for the extremes of the '30's but the "relaxed silhouette." It featured softened curves, long lean torsos and slim skirts and coats.

"Style trends this fall are reminiscent," a commentator explained, "but fashion is not looking back—we prefer to call our new lines contemporary '20s."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A letter before me brings up a question many women wonder about.

This young woman writes, "I am a girl of 17 and am considered very stout but I am self-conscious about my bust. I know other girls who are much thinner than I am who have a much larger bust than I have. In your column a few days ago you said that a gain of weight is the way to develop a larger bust, but I do not want to gain weight but to lose it. I am already much overweight. Could you tell me what to do?"

A gain in weight will fill out the bustline. Many women fail to realize that the size of the bust is just one of those characteristics, like a small nose or a large one, which nature has dumped on us.

The build of our body and the distribution of our weight is a highly individual matter. Many women who are overweight have small busts and heavy deposits of fat from the waist down.

But there is help. Nature is very kind in that she allows us to redistribute our weight more attractively by exercise. Also, the bust measurement can be increased through exercise. The actual size of the bust cannot be improved by exercise but only by gaining weight. The chest muscles can be built up so that you can manufacture your own falsies out of muscle which you will wear underneath your busts and this definitely makes the busts more prominent.

I am always getting letters saying, "You said that the bust can be increased but my doctor says it is impossible. Whom should I believe?" I never said that the size of your bust can be increased but that your bust measurement can be. That is the important thing.

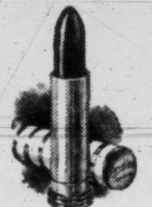

Why worry if you are wearing natural falsies made of muscle underneath your busts rather than falsies made of foam rubber and so forth on top of them? The natural falsies made of increased muscle have great advantages. They are just as effective in a bathing suit or in the nude as they are when wearing an evening gown.

If you would like to have my leaflet for developing the bust measurement, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7, "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust—Reverse!" Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Marriage Vows At Ladysmith

Baskets of tall gladioli in rich autumn shades decorated St. John's Anglican Church, Ladysmith, for the recent wedding which united Isabelle Fannie Davis, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clive H. Davis, Ladysmith, and Donald Grant Irvine, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Irvine of Victoria. Rev. H. E. D. Cooper officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Bridal music was played by the bride's cousin, Miss Elinor Parkin.

The bride wore a gown of white net over taffeta, with dainty jacket of lace. Her chapel veil fell in folds from a petalled headdress of yellow rosebuds, stephanotis and white satin. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Bridesmaids, Miss Maureen Davis, sister of the bride, and Miss Louise Parkin, cousin of the bride, were gowned similarly in net over taffeta in rose-flame and lime green, respectively. White carnations and stephanotis were tucked in their head-dresses of gold petals and they carried shower bouquets of the same flowers.

Best man was J. Macdonald, Victoria, and ushers were Lyn Caplin, Youbou, and Pat Hux, Victoria.

At the reception in Native Sons' Hall, toast to the bride was proposed by W. S. Chalmers.

Victoria guests at the wedding were Mrs. E. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. L. Scott, Marie and Gordon Scott, D. Smith, R. Rowley, Miss Pat Carstens, Joe Richards and Jim Richards.

NOT WARMTH—BUT LUXURY

MONTREAL (CP).—One of Christian Dior's lieutenants reminded Canadian women today that furs are a luxury reserved for the few.

"A woman whose budget can't stretch to the best is wasting her time buying cheap furs," Charles E. Mantau, head of Dior's fur department, said.

"Furs are like diamonds—they are a matter of elegance. You don't wear them to keep warm."

Swedish Meat Ball Recipe From Minneapolis Is Tops

Swedish meat balls, cooked in Minneapolis style, are always popular.

These are recipes used by famous Swedish-American cooks of Minneapolis. The basic ideas come from the Old Country, but they have been adapted to American tastes and methods.

SWEDISH MEAT BALLS

Family style. (Yield 4 to 6 servings).

One pound hamburger, 1 cup finely chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon allspice, 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves, 1 egg, 4 slices dry bread, flour, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups water.

Combine meat, onion, seasonings and egg. Dip bread in water and squeeze dry. Crumble bread into very small bits and add to meat mixture. Mix well. Form into small balls, roll in flour, and brown in hot fat. When all the balls are well browned, remove from skillet. Pour off drippings. Measure back two tablespoons drippings.

Add two tablespoons flour. Stir until smooth. Gradually add water, stirring constantly until thickened. Boil three minutes. Return meat balls to skillet. Cover and simmer about 15 minutes. Season gravy to taste.

CRISP SWEDISH NUT CRESCENTS

Yield, nine dozen.

One-quarter cup butter or margarine, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 egg well beaten, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup chopped pecans, 1/2 cup sugar.

Cream together butter or margarine and sugar. Add egg, milk and vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together and stir into butter mixture. Spread dough very thin (and evenly) on bottom of greased inverted 8x8-inch pans. Sprinkle with nut meats and sugar. Mark in strips 1/4 by four inches.

Bake one pan at a time 10 to 12 minutes in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.). While hot cut into strips and shape over a rolling pin. If strips become too brittle to shape, return to oven to reheat and soften.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by The Sun (Mother of 5)

Most young parents are concerned about finding the perfect baby sitter. But sometimes, in expecting the utmost from the sitter, we forget that we owe a certain amount of consideration to the part-time parent. How to make a good sitter want to play repeat performances? A snack or soft drink is always welcome. When you set a time limit, try not to abuse it. Outline sitter's duties clearly... don't scold her for negligence when you're to blame. And remember, a bit of praise makes any job more desirable.

Repeat performances are usually in order when you serve baby Gerber's Strained Fruits. Tempting true colors and appetizing true flavors combined to make baby beckon for seconds. Made from pick-of-the-orchard fruit, specially prepared to preserve color and flavor, as well as for high retention of wholesome food values. A choice of 8 for meal appeal.

Handy idea. This from a bright young mother! To cut down the wiggles while dressing baby, she gives him 2 small, bright-colored rubber balls to hold... one for each hand. Really works, says she.

Sturdy growth needs a helping hand from wholesome foods. That's why so many doctors suggest meat at an early age. Gerber's Strained Meats provide plenty of the complete proteins so vital to growth, and the development of all body structures. Made from juicy Armour cuts, they're carefully processed for minimum fat and fiber... are easy as milk to digest. All solid meat, with just enough broth added to give a smooth, appealing texture. For youngest babies: 6 Strained Meats. For tots with a few teeth: 3 Junior Meats.

Ranch Home Ideal For Elderly Couple

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Change is increasingly hard for people to adjust to as they grow older. How to do so successfully is the problem facing the woman who writes:

(Q) "I am 50 years old and my husband is 62. Our three children are married and in homes of their own. We have a good-sized home which we both love as we worked and saved hard to buy it. My husband has a heart condition and the doctor has advised us to move to an apartment house where there is an elevator. My husband doesn't want to move. He would be very unhappy in an apartment where he could not putter around in a garden and would have people living above and below him. How can I persuade him that he must follow the doctor's advice?"

Hurlock

(A) Your husband need not live in an apartment house to avoid the problem of going up and down stairs. The type of home that is being recommended for older people is the "ranch-type" where all rooms are on one floor.

In a home of this sort, your husband could have all the advantages of a house, such as privacy and a garden, but he would not have the strain of step-climbing or the possible dangers of falling down stairs, as frequently happens when people grow older.

Go to a real estate agent and ask him to locate a house of this type for you, preferably in a neighborhood near the one where you now live. As you do not need as much space as you did when your children were at home, try to get a smaller house. That will save you a lot of work.

When your husband sees that he can have the comforts of home without the strain of step-climbing, I am sure he will not resist the move.

Crush about 20 gingersnaps to make 1 1/4 cups fine crumbs. Melt 1/4 cup butter or margarine, add to crumbs. Mix well. Press 1 cup crumbs into bottom of ice box tray. Combine in top of double boiler: 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 egg yolks, 1/4 cup fresh lemon juice and 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind. Cook over boiling water (stirring constantly) until thick. Cool. Beat 3 egg whites until stiff, fold into lemon filling. Beat 1/2 cup ice-cold evaporated milk until it peaks, fold into filling. Pour into 8-inch tray and top with remaining crumbs. Freeze until firm (about 2 hours at coldest temperature). Serves 6 to 8.

JUST for the RECORD

AMOUR: In Van Nuys, Calif., Eleanor H. Casteel, 35, a hair stylist, rumpled her hair in court yesterday while denying that her erratic driving was due to drink. It was due to the amorous attentions of her driving companion, B. Keats, 52, she said.

THE PRIZE: In San Quentin, Calif., San Francisco State College won the first annual Rock Bowl football game yesterday when it defeated San Quentin prison 26-13.

Warden Harley O. Teets presented the trophy to San Francisco—a ball and chain.

CHANGE OF HEART: In Fort Worth, Tex., Harry M. Blankenship, after 40 years of beer selling, piled his stock of brew on the sidewalk in front of his cafe yesterday and told the distributors to take it back.

"I decided to stop working for the devil and go to work for the lord," he said.

OLD HOME WEEK: In Columbus, O., Francis Patrick Murphy, 64, the most arrested man in Columbus, was sentenced to 30 days yesterday on a drunk charge.

It was Murphy's 144th arrest.

HAIL: HAIL: In Eldora, Ia., Mrs. Jerald Lawler, mother of five boys, the oldest six, gave birth to triplets yesterday—all boys.

SURRENDER: In Milwaukee, Deputy Sheriff David Schultz gave up today. Twice in the last seven years he has moved his house to make way for expansion of Mitchell Field airport.

Now the air force has acquired a 100-acre tract for a projected jet reserve training center and Schultz is in the way again.

Schultz said he would move all right but this time he won't move the house.

Air force officials said it will make a fine officers' club.

St. Lawrence Project Has First Strike

CORNWALL, Ont. (BUP)—The first strike on the St. Lawrence seaway project developed today as 30 truck drivers called a meeting to organize a union.

The drivers, most of whom own their own trucks, said they were losing money hauling gravel for 45 cents a yard. They demanded a 15 cents per yard increase.

Residents of French Isles in Uproar

Over Return of Tax-Levying Governor

ST. PIERRE, St. Pierre and Miquelon (CP)—Two-thirds of this French island colony's government and trade members have resigned since the return of their unpopular governor from Paris eight days ago.

The 5,500 residents of this smallest and oldest of French colonies, only 12 miles south of Newfoundland, had not expected the reappointment of Governor Irenne Davier, who doubled municipal trade taxes and tripled port charges.

Thirty of the 45 members of the general and municipal councils and the board of trade, including the presidents of each body, have resigned in protest and three town citizens left for Paris to appeal for Davier's recall.

Davier's 25 per cent tax on formerly tax-free French perfumes and liquors meant St. Pierre could no longer lure tourists with promises of a night's drinking for only $3 and the world's best perfumes for less.

Because the colony is highly subsidized, the new taxes were probably imposed to ease France's economic troubles.

change. Just a change—and very marked.

A SUPERB VIEW

What can one say about Quebec? Once more I had a room above the harbor, with a superb view east and west. Once more this advantage ate into time. I suppose that if one stayed in Quebec long enough one would see every kind of ship; certainly I noted a big "Empress" liner, docking, and a tanker anchoring in midstream, and scores of freighters and lake boats, and an RCN frigate intent on naval business. And if you must watch ships all the time (as I must), the ferry from Quebec to Levis runs three times every hour.

But this city teems with the past as well. Cartier was there in 1535. Champlain saw the first buildings going up in 1603. The only walked city on the North American Continent, Quebec has a massive historical background, from the Hurons fighting the Iroquois, to General Wolfe hesitating between writing Gray's Elegy and scaling the Heights; from Montcalm (whose skull is still preserved there) to Churchill and Roosevelt meeting in 1943. It is a city to wander round, while you savor the past, and feel good about the future. To countless Canadians, the very word "Quebec" is an enigma. To the casual visitor, it is a continuous delight.

ALWAYS A REWARD

For wanderers and tourists, there is always a reward. If you search long enough, you will come upon a carving of a golden dog. It was carved long ago, by a man with a forgotten grudge. Staring glimlet-eyed into the future, this is what he wrote: "I am a dog gnawing a bone. While I am gnawing, I take my rest."

But a time will come, which is not yet come.

When I shall bite him who has bitten me."

HITS 'DISTORTION' OF VIEWS

'French Canadians Great Happy People' Says Protestant Leader

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP)—One of the United Church of Canada's top officers said today there is no popular Protestant desire to wean French-speaking Canadians away from the Roman Catholic Church or tear down the culture of the Province of Quebec.

Dr. Ernest Long, elected last week to the permanent secretaryship of the council, presented the 16th general conference with the report of the committee on civil and religious liberty.

As secretary, he holds the top administrative post in the United Church and serves as its liaison man with all external bodies.

Dr. Long said there were two distorted views that led to misunderstanding between French and English-speaking Canadians and the Protestants and Roman Catholics.

He said that in one wrong view, Quebec province is the seat of "purely reactionary political and cultural forces verging on fascism" and a "place where no liberal currents of thought can find expression."

The second false view, he said, "regards English-speaking Canada as scheming to enforce a complete assimilation of French culture into that of the rest of Canada, involving the eventual destruction of the French tradition."

NO SUCH DESIRE

"I think I speak for the Protestant faith as a whole when I say quite emphatically that Protestant people have no such desire to wean French-Canadians away from their mother church or their culture," Dr. Long said.

Crawford is tentatively slated to take the lead. It was published a year ago, "Cruel Sea" in 1951.

Unlike most authors in appraising their books made into movies, he had only words of praise regarding the treatment and characterization of "Sea."

It featured British actor Jack Hawkins as the captain, playing here only a few weeks ago. A corvette in the film originally belonged to his own escort group, he recalled.

Capt. Stacey interjected to add that nobody has captured the inner feelings of the cruel sea the way you did."

Nicky just smiled and said it was a natural. "I had so much excellent material to work with."

"JUST STORY-TELLER"

The man who considers himself not an author, as such, but a "story-teller" . . . the thing I want to do," has the theme in his mind for two Canadian novels, one dealing with the pioneering of Canada on a north-west basis, and another on a Maritimes sea theme.

Canadian writers, he opined, "have so far just nibbled at the stories here."

The general conception of writing in Canada he saw was not tackled on a sufficiently mature basis, with writing for U.S. markets a "death" for native development. However, he qualified this by adding, with a smile, "writers still had to stay alive. If markets weren't available here, writers had to peddle wares elsewhere."

He recalled that years before, in London, where he lived prior to the war, he wrote all sorts of trade paper articles for peanuts.

including the presidents of each body, have resigned in protest and three town citizens left for Paris to appeal for Davier's recall.

Davier's 25 per cent tax on formerly tax-free French perfumes and liquors meant St. Pierre could no longer lure tourists with promises of a night's drinking for only $3 and the world's best perfumes for less.

2,000 Join Night Schools To Learn Variety of Skills

The long, lonely nights of winter won't be either long or lonely for 2,000 adult Victorians who will be attending night school classes offered by the Greater Victoria School Board.

They will be busy learning to dance, build houses, build boats, debate, keep fit and do about 70 other things.

Many ambitious types who neglected to finish high school before going to work will attend night school in order to obtain junior matriculation credits. Others will enroll for training in secretarial work or take trade training.

ANY COURSE

The school board has attempted to satisfy the needs and desires of everyone interested in group study and recreation. At the same time, the board concedes it may have missed a couple of subjects and offers to set any other course that's wanted by 15 people, providing an instructor's available.

"If a lot of people wanted to learn to be trapeze artists, we would do our best to see they have a chance," is the attitude of the board.

Night school classes begin October 4. The first term will run until December 18. The second term will be from January 3 to March 18, although students taking junior matriculation courses will attend classes until June 10.

VARIED COURSES

Leisure-time courses include: Home auto repairs, home building, better driving, English for new Canadians, gardening, how to invest money, public speaking and writing for publication.

Art courses will provide instruction in drawing and painting, art metalwork, print making (line cuts and silk screen) and weaving.

Sports-minded people will enroll in classes teaching badminton, golf, physical training and square dancing.

There will be classes in wood-working and metalcraft, cabinet making and boat building.

Scheduled specially to meet feminine interests are courses in dressmaking, millinery and tailoring.

Commercial courses will cover the subjects of bookkeeping, shorthand, typing and general secretarial practices.

Technical courses will deal with coastal navigation, interior decoration, electric motors, blueprint drawing, steam engineering and welding.

In addition, 32 apprenticeship courses will be provided.

In most cases classes will meet one night a week. Some classes will meet twice weekly.

Information relating to night school may be obtained from John S. White, director of evening classes, at the school board office.

Hospital Men Seek Change in Insurance Act

An amendment to the Unemployment Insurance Act to cover stationary engineers in hospitals will be sought by the B.C. Council of the International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL-TLC).

This decision was made at a meeting of the council in Victoria over the week-end when delegates criticized the "closed door" policy on stationary engineers in Canada. Engineers operating at the Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals in Victoria, the Queen Alexandra Solarium, King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan and Nanaimo General Hospital are affected by the ruling.

Eight delegates of locals representing about 6,000 workers throughout the province attended the parley, including Ed Callan, Victoria, vice-president of the council.

Among other matters discussed were amendments sought to the Boiler and Pressure Vessel Act to allow for stricter examination and certification of hoisting and portable engineers and refrigeration and compressor plant engineers.

Provost Charge Upheld

Ian Rendle, Esquimalt, paid $15 in Esquimalt court Monday for violating a 15-mile limit near Work Point Barracks. He was charged by an army provost corps patrol which is enforcing speed restrictions on department of national defense property.

U.S. Naturalist to Show Wild-Life Film Here Friday

A park ranger-naturalist from Homestead, Florida, who has become famous for his wild-life movies, will show one of his colorful films at a meeting at the Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday.

William H. Wagoner will show a film entitled "Wonderland"—a wild-life picture which took two years to complete. The film, all color, is full of contrast—changing seasons in the Jersey pine barrens, undersea coral reefs of Florida, bird life in the Everglades, big game in the Rockies and pack trips into remote canyons of Utah.

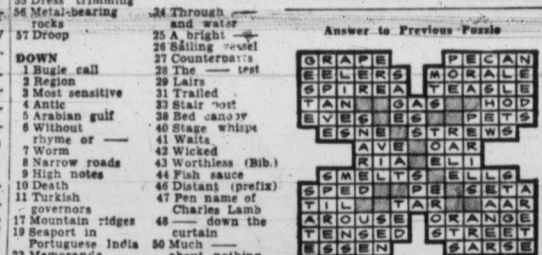

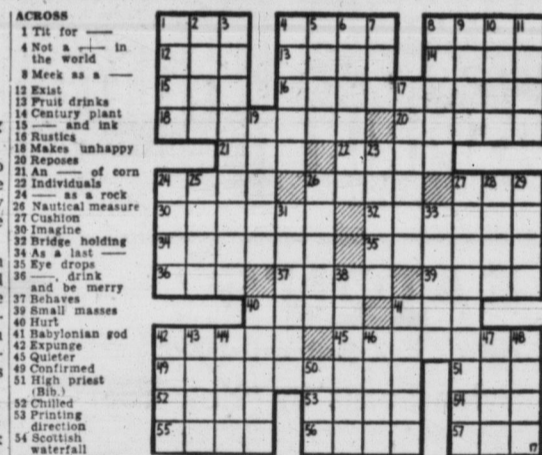

Mr. Wagoner, a former photographer in the U.S. Army Signal Corps, spends most of his time climbing mountains and exploring remote areas of Canada and the United States.

The meeting is one of several which the Victoria Naturalist Society is sponsoring this year with the co-operation of the National Audubon Society of Canada. Last year the society also held a similar series of film-lectures which were attended by over 5,000 Victorians.

The next lecturer will be Bert Harwell, who will show his film "Canada North" on Nov. 10. This is also a spectacular color film dealing with Eskimos and the wild life of the tundra.

Poor Brakes Cause Crash; Bring Fine

Poor brakes, which led to a dangerous driving charge, cost Harvey Ivan Bragg, 646 Gorge Road E., $50 in city police court Tuesday. Police said Bragg had attempted to cut around a car which was leaving a driveway. Instead of slowing down, in doing so, he hit another car, doing $450 damage. His brakes were poor and needed pumping. He didn't have time, police said.

TOO MUCH SUGAR

Candy Store Scored By School Dentist

The corner confectionery was held responsible for most of the decay in children's teeth by Dr. Hugh Clarke, veteran school dentist, when he spoke to the school board Monday night.

Dr. Clarke and his partner, Dr. David Parfitt, peer into the mouths of 15,000 Greater Victoria school pupils every year. When he sees teeth riddled with decay, it's a safe bet the cause is too much sugar, the dentist said.

And it's more than likely the sugar was consumed in the form of penny candies, chocolate bars, chewing gum and soft drinks.

The doctor decried all of these as being injurious to children's teeth. He lauded parents who try to keep their youngsters away from such confections.

"It's unfortunate that every time you build a new school a little confectionery store pops up right alongside it," he told the board, "and do they ever do a business!"

The doctor's war against candy, gum and pop is making headway. He said the number of parents heeding his advice was being reflected in the lesser number of children found to be needing dental treatment.

FIVE CHIEF OFFENDERS

Yet children forbidden candy at home will often get it elsewhere, the doctor acknowledged. "I warn parents there are five people to guard their child against in that regard," he said. "There's the doting grandfather and grandmother, the aunt and uncle and the kindly neighbor down the street who loves children."

In discussing his work, Dr. Clarke observed that the age of vaccination and inoculation is leaving its mark on today's children in more ways than one.

It is causing tiny children to associate men in white coats with needles, he said.

PSYCHOLOGY TO RESCUE

Dr. Clarke said he used a little psychology to overcome this by just wearing an ordinary business suit when checking youngsters for the first time.

The school dentist praised the work of other dentists in the city. He said that as a result of regular inspections in the schools and the good work of downtown dentists, the condition of children's teeth here was second to none in the country.

Trustee Harold Whitfield asked if dentists charged the same for work performed on children as they did for adults. Dr. Clarke said that to the best of his knowledge they did.

Mr. Whitfield suggested the dental fraternity should consider giving a 10 per cent reduction on children's work. He argued dentist bills could often take a heavy toll on a parent's pocketbook.

Dr. Clarke contended dentists were faced with high costs for office space, dental assistants and equipment. Mr. Whitfield said that while this might be so, he felt sure the only dentist he knew well "will have his first million before I get my first thousand."

Scandal Rocks Scelba

Riot Police Guard Rome Against Reds

ROME, Italy (UP)—Premier Mario Scelba ordered riot police to guard Rome's principal squares tonight in a firm answer to a Communist attempt to topple his government on charges it protected prominent persons involved in a drugs-sex scandal.

The Italian Reds were in full cry for Scelba's scalp. They have been waiting eagerly for an opening to attack the short, stout Sicilian who blocked their bid for power in 1948.

Italy's "scandal of the century" has brought the arrest of the jazz pianist son of Italy's former foreign minister Attilio Piccioni and forced the minister's resignation.

TRUCKLOADS OF POLICE

But the sight of truckloads of armed police in the alleyways near the senate chamber of deputies and foreign office removed the threat of serious demonstrations.

The long-smoldering scandal broke with a fury Tuesday night with the arrest of Piero Piccioni and a self-styled nobleman in connection with the death, 17 months ago, of a half-naked pretty girl.

The jailing of Piccioni and the "Marquis" Ugo Montagna left Scelba's government and the pro-American Christian Democratic party reeling.

It threatened to drive more voters toward the Communists, who already control one of every three seats in the Chamber of Deputies.

FIGHTING BACK

Competent political observers said the involvement of young Piccioni, aide of the Communist drive to try to topple Scelba, their most hated foe, from power.

But Scelba fought back this morning, working on strategy which he hopes will turn the crisis into triumph.

The scandal started on a lonely beach on the Mediterranean Sea on the night of April 11, 1953, when the body of Wilma Montesi, 20, was found.

The climax came with the arrest of Piccioni on charges of wilful manslaughter and Montagna as an accessory after the fact.

Piero previously had been described by an aristocratic, discarded mistress of Montagna as an "assassin."

Cabinet Will Hear Fare Appeal

The provincial cabinet will hear an appeal against the transit increases granted the B.C. Electric on its Vancouver operation, it was learned today.

Cabinet sources said an appeal will be granted Vancouver City, and other lower mainland municipalities affected by the fare increase.

Vancouver council claimed the Public Utilities Commission, which handed down its decision awarding a fare boost Labor Day week-end, erred in computing wage cost, contained in the B.C.E. application.

The council also suggested there were "other irregularities in the increase application. Burnaby and North Vancouver plan to organize the other municipalities into a joint appeal.

New Westminster council launched its separate appeal. No date has been set for the cabinet hearing, but it is considered likely the issue will await the return of Premier W. A. C. Bennett from the east two weeks from now.

No Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UP)—Prospects that President Eisenhower will propose a general income tax cut next year dimmed today with disclosure that the treasury probably will have to ask Congress for another hike in the federal debt limit.

In the northern part of New Brunswick, the language changes gradually from English to French; "welcome" becomes "bienvenue," "miles" become "milles," "French fries" are translated unapologetically into "patates frites." A few miles north of Edmundston lies the Quebec border, and from there, an hour brings one to Riviere du Loup, and the broad St. Lawrence River.

I had a special reason for wanting to spend some time in Riviere du Loup. My ancestors all came, originally, from a small village called Castres, near Toulouse in the south of France. When they emigrated to a more tolerant atmosphere, about two hundred years ago, some of them went to Ireland, some to England, some to the Ever since I came to Canada, I've wanted to find out if this was so. Riviere du Loup meant the end of a personal quest.

It seems that it is true. Our name was in the telephone book; and a few yards from the hotel was an engineering works boldly labelled "Monsarrat Limited." I couldn't make contact with the man I really wanted to see. (Continued on Page 26)

Brazen London Bandits Grab $112,000 in Gold

LONDON (UP)—Police found the abandoned getaway truck today which bandits used to snatch $112,000 in gold bullion in a 20-second street robbery outside the home of Britain's highest law enforcement official.

But the bandits had vanished, presumably lugging with them two plain plank cartons full of bullion weighing more than 200 pounds.

The robbers grabbed their loot from an airline delivery truck in a daring holdup committed in daylight during the rush hour Tuesday afternoon.

The robbery took place in a little cobbled lane called Jockey's Fields, right beside the residence of Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, overlord of Scotland Yard.

The bullion, consigned by Rothschild's bank to the Swiss Union Bank in Amsterdam, had just been loaded aboard a KLM Royal Dutch Airlines truck standing in the lane when the bandits executed their brazen plan.

The getaway truck was backed at high speed into the lane toward the rear of the KLM truck. A stolen black Austin sedan was driven into a blocking position in front of the KLM vehicle.

Alfred W. J. Kent, driver of the KLM truck, was about to close its tailgate when he saw the robbers' truck backing toward him.

"That's far enough," Kent shouted. He leaped clear just as the rear of the bandit truck smashed into the rear of his own.

Before Kent realized it was robbery and not an accident, three agile bandits had leaped into his truck, pitched the bullion into theirs and roared away.

Kent dashed to a corner and immediately found a police car. But the abandoned Austin blocked police entry into the lane. By the time the police circled the block, the robbers' truck and the gold were gone.

A nation-wide alert went out and this morning detectives found the getaway truck abandoned in a quiet street only a few blocks from the robbery scene. It was empty.

By TONY DICKASON

The clipped accented voice said "come in," and "Nicky" Monsarrat, who wrote a book everybody knows about, wrestled, stuffing shirt into trousers top in his Empress Hotel room. "See you downstairs in a few minutes," he said.

The author of the internationally talked-about book of the wartime navy, "The Cruel Sea," bounced into the rotunda within minutes, as promised, and headed directly with outstretched hand for Capt. W. Roland Stacey of Victoria.

"It's been a long time," he said. Capt. Stacey, a marine surveyor here and vice-president of the harbor development group, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, picked up the frigate Ettrick from Monsarrat at Halifax in 1943. They were both "two-and-one-half strippers" lieutenant-commanders, at that time.

In the series of "cross-Canada stories" Monsarrat is now writing, being carried by the Times, the famous author recalled the instance, Capt. Stacey, he said, "gave me a receipt, which I still have. It read, simply: 'Received, one frigate.'"

A long-time devotee of low, sleek European racing model cars, Monsarrat couldn't seemingly wait to show off his continental $16,000 Bentley which stood up "without any trouble" during 5,075 miles of driving across the country. As director of the United Kingdom Information Office in the national capital, his "vivid, vivid" vehicle has been a common and often-commented-on sight on Ottawa streets.

B.C. ROADS BEST

After the long haul, "the best roads in Canada are right here in B.C.," he said. Second preference he gave Nova Scotia highways. Roads here were well-marked, and if the sign said "slow" he found that's exactly what they meant... nothing else.

Relaxed in an easy lobby chair, the 44-year-old greying author said he had completed 20 of the 24 "travel diary" stories of his trip. He intends to do one on this area and today visits the docks, Butchart Gardens and other points of interest. When the series is completed it will be published in Canada as well as in London and New York.

"It's the type of thing they enjoy overseas," he said. Writing since 1933, he has just sold film rights "on a percentage basis" on his latest book, "The Story of Esther Costello," a yarn about a blind girl. Character actress, Joan (Continued on Page 26)

'Get Rid Of Chiang' - Attlee

'Biggest Difficulty Is Nationalists'

LONDON (CP)—Labor leader Clement Attlee, returning today from his tour behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains, said he believes "the sooner we get rid of Chiang Kai-shek and his troops the better it will be."

The former prime minister told reporters at London airport after an overnight flight from Canada that the "biggest difficulty of all" in the Orient is Formosa, island stronghold of Chiang's Chinese Nationalists.

Attlee, who talked with top Russian and Chinese Communist leaders, said he felt there had been a relaxation of tension in the Orient following the Indo-China truce agreement at Geneva.

Attlee and his wife, who joined him in Singapore, were greeted here by their two daughters and a grandchild. PARTY BUSY

But no high-ranking members of the Labor party turned up. The party's national executive committee, preparing for the annual party conference next week at Scarborough, was wrangling over the issue of West German rearmament at the moment Attlee's plane landed.

Attlee himself was expected to get into this discussion later in the day. (See story on page 2.)

Former Convict Top Suspect in Brent Killing

Police Hunting Montreal Man

VANCOUVER (BUP)—An ex-convict who came here from Montreal the day that Danny Brent, Press Club waiter believed a member of a west coast narcotics ring, was murdered, was listed today as the top suspect in Brent's killing.

A coroner's jury Tuesday ruled that Brent died from a shot in the back. Two other shots were fired into his body from a distance of not more than two inches, police said.

Brent's body was found on the 10th green of the University of British Columbia golf course last Wednesday. The two bullets pumped into his body from point-blank range were found in the ground, one of them 10 inches below the surface.

Police said the Montreal man, whom they refused to identify, apparently returned East the day after the shooting. (See story on page 15.)

Potato Peeling—Is It a Skill?

Student Minister's Appeal in Lottery Depends on Alberta Court Finding

EDMONTON (CP)—How much skill is involved in peeling a potato?

That's the question now before the Alberta appeal court. The answer is expected to determine whether former student minister James Wallace of Provost, Alta., will be successful in his appeal against conviction and a $75 fine on a charge of conducting a lottery.

He had been in charge of a scheme through which the Provost Arena Association hoped to raise enough money to build a new arena for the eastern Alberta town.

About 200,000 tickets were sold for a "jamboree" at which 20 tickets were to be drawn.

RAIN THREAT FOR TONIGHT'S BOXLA CLASH

Threat of rain was in the air late today at Peterborough, Ont., as Victoria Shamrocks and Peterborough Trailermen awaited tonight's fourth game of the Mann Cup Dominion lacrosse championship.

A report received by the Times just before press time indicated that Miller Bowl, Peterborough's outdoor box, may be slippery, even if the game goes on as scheduled.

Previously it had been reported that if Miller Bowl were unsuitable for play, the series would be switched to Peterborough's covered Civic Arena. However, nothing definite has been received from the east today regarding a possible change in playing sites.

Stengel, 64, has managed the Yankees for six years. In his first five years the Yankees won the American League pennant and then took the World Series. New York finished second this year to Cleveland Indians.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed. Under the two-year contract which expires Jan. 1, 1955, Stengel is believed to be receiving $75,000, plus a pension deal and a $10,000 gift each year, bringing the total to around $85,000 a season.

Secretary of State, External Affairs Juggle Times Queries

By DAVE STOCK

High officials in Ottawa today acknowledged a formal protest which the Jamaican House of Representatives is forwarding to Canada in connection with the case of the banished Jamaican bride at Shawanigan Lake School will create an unprecedented problem.

Victor Mackie, Times parliamentary correspondent in Ottawa, today enquired as to what course Canada will follow when the protest is received. He found no one who could say.

"This is a matter in which there appears to be no precedent," a spokesman for the department of external affairs told him. "We will have to determine how to handle it when we receive the protest. It all appears to have arisen out of a misunderstanding at the school, but we cannot address enquiries to the school. That action would probably come under the secretary of state."

A spokesman for the secretary of state's office expressed astonishment at the suggestion that the protest might end up in that department. He pointed out it was a protest from the administration in Jamaica directed to the Canadian government and therefore was clearly an external matter.

Protest May Become B.C. Baby

If it were a matter involving a public school in Victoria, the official told Mr. Mackie, then he believed federal authorities would turn the matter over to the provincial government on grounds that it was within its jurisdiction.

Shawanigan Lake School is a private institution. Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs is absent from Ottawa at the UN General Assembly. In his absence, Hon. Roch Pinard, secretary of state, is acting secretary of state for external affairs.

Asked for comment both as secretary of state and as acting external affairs minister, Mr. Pinard told Mr. Mackie:

"I can say nothing. I do not know at this stage what action we will take."

Mr. Mackie's summary: "One thing appears clear. If and when the protest is received a polite reply will go back to the Jamaican House of Representatives acknowledging receipt of the protest and advising that the matter will be looked into. That much and no more will government officials admit."

Jamaica's House of Representatives dealt with the now-famous "Hewitt incident" at its session Tuesday. Mrs. Dorothy Hewitt, the beautiful Jamaican bride of Shawanigan Lake schoolmaster John Michael Hewitt recently returned to her home in Kingston, charging that she had been ordered to leave Shawanigan Lake School "before the boys come back and find a colored person here."

Mr. Hewitt, who is remaining at the school, corroborated his wife's statement but a denial was issued Tuesday by the school's board of governors.

Mr. Mackie's summary: "One thing appears clear. If and when the protest is received a polite reply will go back to the Jamaican House of Representatives acknowledging receipt of the protest and advising that the matter will be looked into. That much and no more will government officials admit."

At the same time, Mrs. Hewitt, returned to the home of her father, N. B. Holtz, accountant-general for Jamaica, expressed amazement that the Shawanigan Lake School board of governors had denied she had been asked to leave the school because of her race.

Contacted by the Vancouver Sun by telephone, sometime after the Victoria Times had interviewed her father by phone, Mrs. Hewitt said:

Bride Reaffirms School Ban

"Before John and I were married, the headmaster, Mr. Kaye, spoke to both of us and told us we could not get married because it would be a mixed marriage," she told the Vancouver newsman who interviewed her.

"He told me to leave the school before the boys came back and found me there."

"This story is quite true. I wouldn't have told it otherwise."

Mrs. Hewitt seemed heartened by news that the school had invited her and her father to come to Shawanigan at the school's expense to discuss the matter further.

She said: "We will give it our earnest consideration and cable as soon as we have made up our minds."

She earlier had explained to the interviewer: "I haven't quite made up my mind whether I still want to live in Canada or not."

"Do you feel bitter toward Canadians for this treatment?" she was asked.

"Well, how would you feel," she replied.

Crown prosecutor W. J. Shortreed said that during the trial several witnesses said they believed potato-peeling was a skill, but he termed their evidence only opinion. He said opinion evidence can be accepted only from experts, and those witnesses were not established as experts.

Mr. Justice M. M. Porter said that as a youth he worked on river boats, peeling potatoes. "It's such a skill that you were dismissed if you didn't peel them fast enough," he said.

"Then you would be qualified as an expert witness," replied Mr. Shortreed.

The appeal is continuing.

The two will probably be charged with removing a body from a grave, officers said.

A coffin containing the remains of Robert Eden, who died 98 years ago, was taken from the burial vault last week and found on the Eden family estate at Windstone Hall, Chilton. Two other coffins had their outer casings removed.

ROBBERS DESECRATE EDEN FAMILY GRAVES

DURHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Police have arrested a man of 21 and a boy of 15 following investigation into the desecration of the family mausoleum near here where most of the ancestors of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden are buried. They said the object of the raid was to steal the lead coffin linings.

The two will probably be charged with removing a body from a grave, officers said.

Shamrocks Threaten To Quit Boxla Final

By DENNY BOYD

PETERBOROUGH, Ont.—Victoria Shamrocks, completely disgruntled, have again threatened the Canadian Lacrosse Association that they will forfeit all remaining games in the current Mann Cup playoffs.

Shamrocks today issued an ultimatum to the CLA that they will leave for home unless their request to move the remainder of the series indoors is adhered to.

This move followed cancellation of tonight's scheduled game at Miller Bowl because of rain and wet grounds.

Shamrock officials handed the ultimatum to CLA officials following the postponement of the game.

They have demanded that all remaining games be moved to Peterborough's Civic Arena which has been booked by the CLA.

The CLA countered by offering the proposal that Thursday night's game be played at Miller Bowl with other games scheduled at Miller Bowl to be moved to the civic arena in the event of rain.

CLA officials were awaiting the Shamrocks' reply to the counter proposal as this was being written. However, Shamrock officials appeared adamant in their demands.

They feel that the CLA has made a "deal" with the Trailermen to use Miller Bowl and won't back down. CLA officials will neither confirm nor deny this. Still, it is known that the Peterborough Lacrosse Club receives 25 per cent of all Mann Cup games as they own Miller Bowl, the 25 per cent being rental.

The situation is extremely grim and both CLA officials and western representatives know it, for they fear if the Shamrocks do leave, it could herald the end of Mann Cup competition.

It is also felt that CLA officials have at long last realized their mistake in scheduling games at Miller Bowl, it being treacherous at best. Even at its best, there is only a few inches of hard earth on the surface with mud underneath.

A decision from the CLA will likely be arrived at tonight.

Scandal
Rocks
ScelbaRiot Police Guard
Rome Against Reds

ROME, Italy (UP)—Premier Mario Scelba ordered riot police to guard Rome's principal squares tonight in a firm answer to a Communist attempt to topple his government on charges it protected prominent persons involved in a drugs-sex scandal.

The Italian Reds were in full cry for Scelba's scalp.

They have been waiting eagerly for an opening to attack the short, tough Sicilian who blocked their bid for power in 1948.

Italy's "scandal of the century" has brought the arrest of the jazz pianist son of Italy's former foreign minister Altiero Piccioni and forced the minister's resignation.

TRUCK-LOADS OF POLICE

But the sight of truck-loads of armed police in the alleyways near the senate, chamber of deputies and foreign office removed the threat of serious demonstrations.

The long-smoldering scandal broke with a fury Tuesday night with the arrest of Piero Piccioni and a self-styled mobster in connection with the death, 17 months ago, of a half-naked pretty girl.

The jailing of Piccioni and the "Marquis" Ugo Montagna left Scelba's government and the pro-American Christian Democratic party reeling.

It threatened to drive more voters toward the Communists, who already control one of every three seats in the Chamber of Deputies.

Pride Visits Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—Adm. Alfred M. Pride, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet, paid a surprise visit to Formosa today as Communist batteries on the China mainland renewed bombardment of Quemoy Island and units of the Russian fleet were reported moving south.

He headed directly with out stretched hand for Capt. W. Roland Stacey of Victoria.

"It's been a long time," he said. Capt. Stacey, a marine surveyor here and vice-president of the harbor development group, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, picked up the frigate Ettrick from Monsarrat at Halifax in 1943. They were both "two-and-a-half" strippers lieutenant-commanders, at that time.

In the series of 'cross-Canada stories Monsarrat is now writing, being carried by the Times, the famous author recalled the instance. Capt. Stacey, he said, "gave me a receipt, which I still have. It read, simply: 'Received, one frigate.'"
